NEW HAMPSHIRE ELECTION.

The returns from all but four towns give 191 Republicans and 179 Democrats elected to the House. The four towns to hear from are entitled to five Representatives; allowing them all to be Democratic, there will still be a Republican majority of seven. The Senate stands five Republicans to five Democrats, with no choice in second and fourth districts. These districts will be filled on the assembling of the Legislature by Republicans, which will make the Senate seven Republicans to five Democrats. It is said that Briggs, the Republican candidate in the second district, will contest the election of Martin, Democrat, on account of frauds in the city of Manchester, and should he be unseated, the Republican majority in the Senate would number three. On the vote for Governor, Cheney, Republican, and Roberts, Democrat, run within 100 votes of each other. The Prohibition vote will reach about eight hundred. As it requires a majority vote to elect, the election is thrown into the House, which, being Republican, insures the election of Cheney, the Republican candidate. The Democrats have two of the three Congressmen.

Although the Republican victory in New Hampshire is not so positive as was at first reported, yet it is a speedy and unmistakable rebuke to the Bourbonistic tendencies and corruption of which the Democracy have been guilty in that State, as well as everywhere else where they have succeeded in obtaining the power. It would have been quite natural to have supposed, that with the prestige of the great victories of last year, Democratic success would have been comparitively easy, and it might have been so, had it not been for the fact, that they have made the very worst use possible of the power delegated to them by the people. When the Democratic party got control of the New Hampshire State government last year they acted in the narrowest spirit of debased politicians. The action of their legislature last June was a public scandal. In fact this party has only received power to abuse it; therefore, the first gun of 1875 peels forth from the granite hills of the North a Republican victory, and the little Commonwealth of New Hampshire wheels into the line of Loyal States. From letters we have received from there, and the tone of our New Hampshire exchanges, we know that the campaign was fought in the old fashioned style, i.e., as a campaign is conducted no where else. Every man, woman and child, old enough to understand, has become intensely interested in the result. The wonder to us is, that a thousand men could be found in the State willing to throw their votes away on a third candidate; and yet it may be explained in the fact, that the New England Yankee is a great stickler for principle. There, the Democrat is a Bourbon upon principle. He hates the Republicans because his father was a Democrat, and hated the Whigs and Free Soilers. They do not know that Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson are dead, and their principles, as far as the Democracy are concerned, are buried with them. They hate the negro because he is black; and because, as they believe, he is not capable of self government; is not capable of being educated; has a long heel and hair that curls tight. They hate every new and progressive idea, because their fathers got along well enough without any of these new fangled notions. They are opposed to the Civil Rights bill; but all they have to offer against it is, "how would you like to marry your daughter to a nigger?" or, "how would you like to marry a nigger?" There are only 494 negroes in the State, and they are intelligent and well educated, living as they do in the largely Republican districts. Yet they are exasperated beyond measure, because this small handful of colored men, their superiors in every respect, are to be regarded and treated like American citizens; because they are to be placed on a level with the ignorant, low lived Democratic horde of Coos county. We speak of this county because it is wrapped in a moral and intellectual darkness, and is intensely Democratic. But the Democracy of New Hampshire are all alike. They hate temperance because they love New England rum. They hate religion because the ministers all vote the Republican ticket.

In the town of Mont Vernon, when we were there, a large and flourishing church had but two Democrats in it. The town of Deering, containing about 150 voters, and having a Democratic majority of 90, was able to sustain only one very feeble society at the east part of the town, the members of which, were the few Republicans living in that part. Chief among them, was a generous, whole-souled Republican, by the name of Bartlett Simons.

The New Hampshire Democracy cling to the prejudices and vices enumerated above with a devotion worthy of a better cause. They are anti-temperance, negro haters, irriligious, and ignorant upon principles. They seem to hate all progress, and fight against it with the earnestness of men who believe they are contending for the right. It is against such men as these that the Republican party of that State contended successfully for fifteen consecutive years with an average majority of only 1000. They are the intelligent masses — the antipodes of their opponents; in towns where they are in the majority, churches and schools prosper, and thrift and temperance prevails. In the village of Mont Vernon, where four fifths of the people are Republicans, (although the town is the other way) they supported a high school, which was sustained at the expense of a few men—every one of them Republicans. It was a heavy tax for them to carry. We could name them all. Noble men! they performed their work faithfully and well. They leave behind them noble sons, not unworthy such noble sires. The Republicans of the State are as earnestly in favor of progress as their opponents are opposed to it. So apparent is this, that a traveler passing through the State can tell a village where the people are Republican as soon as he reaches it, by the character of the people, and the thrift and order which every where prevails, although the people may be never so poor. In our travels through the State last summer, we noticed this feature to a painful degree. We had no need to ask what the politics of the town might be. We knew immediately by the appearance of things. We could tell by the very paint on the houses. Our readers will no doubt see, that between such parties the contest must have been very earnest—almost fierce in its nature. Whatever advantage therefore, is gained by either party, is a real substantial advantage. With this exception, however, the Democracy have polled their entire strength, while the Republicans will enter the presidential contest with the temperance reserves to draw upon, making the State sure for a Repbulican president in 1876. Another feature of their politics is, they never trade. As they vote entirely upon principle, they never think of such a thing as voting for a man on account of a personal preferance, or on account of relationship or friendship. We will venture assertion, that there has not been ten votes cast in the State for any man, for any office, however high or low, in this election, for any of the above named reasons.

In conclusion, we say, all hail to New Hampshire! a State redeemed in every sense of the word; for, as long as the Democracy of that State stand upon the same platform on which they have stood for the last twenty years or more, so long will their success signify encouragement to intemperance, bad government, ignorance and irreligion, while Republicanism will be synonymous with reform, temperance, good government, education, the elevation of the masses and every good word and work. The Republicans all over the country are encouraged by this victory. No doubt Connecticut will add another star to the Republican constellation of 1875.

HON. HENRY M. LONG.

Among the leading Republican members of the Legislature, we are glad to name the Hon. Henry M. Long, the representative of the first district, Allegheny County. Mr. Long is an able member, an indefatigable worker, a representative man, a member of that body, among the few, of whom his constituents may well feel proud when he returns home at the close of the session, his fellow citizens can truthfully say, "well done good and faithful servant."

It appears from the Legislative Records, that the Hon. W. K. Alexander, one of the members from Centre County, has chosen to desert his assumed Master, P. Gray Meek, and vote as his judgment and conscience dictates. This seems to have been the case, especially, when he voted against the repeal of the Local Option law; contrary to the understanding and expectations of many of the Democrats, as well as all the Republicans, who were induced to vote for him, through fraud and deception practiced on them by Mr. Meek.

It will be remembered, that Mr. Alexander is the gentleman whom Mr. Meek influenced, by means of the Lytle—Chambers letters, during the Campaign of 1871, to use his efforts to carry the delegate election of Penn township, in favor of him, and against Judge Orvis, which proved successful and Mr. Meek was nominated as a candidate for the Legislature.

Mr. Meek has spared no efforts to reward Mr. Alexander, for his stupidity in that memorable campaign, which was brought to a focus in the late canvass, to fill the vacancy in the Legislature; which has finally culminated to the great discomfort of Mr. Meek and all his following, in consequence of Mr. Alexander having voted in accordance with the expressed will of the people on the question of Local Option. However commendable his action may be in this matter, there seems to be no doubt that Mr. Alexander through Mr. Meek's instruction, no doubt, as being his approved method of electioneering, pledged himself to vote as circumstances required, both for and against the repeal of the Local Option law; at least, we are so informed, and the result of the election as indicated by the votes in some localities, leads us to believe, that the truth of the statement is fully confirmed. While we desire to find no fault with those Republicans, we trust the sequal to the late election, will be a sufficient warning, to those, who felt it their interest to desert our candidate, when success was within our grasp, and that hereafter they will find that Republican men and measures are far preferable to support than professional Democratic politicians, who make a business of promulgating empty promises, for the sole purpose of catching votes.

THE FORTY-THIRD CONRGESS HAS PAST INTO HISTORY.

The second session of the forty-third congress expired March 4th. No doubt it can be said of this body, as it might of any other, that it has done some things which it ought not to have done and left undone some things which it should have done; yet it can truthfully be said that no session has ever been marked by a more noticeable absence of any inclination to jobbery and corruption. Almost every effort to assail the treasury was met by a determined opposition, unless it was very clear that a benefit was to be derived equal to the outlay. The principal features of the work of the session have been the passing of the civil rights bill, the adoption of the finance bill and the passage of the revenue measure. All of these, so far as they may go toward furthering the national prosperity or increasing harmony among the different sections of the country, have received the hearty ascent of the better class of the people. The failure of the bounty bill to become a law, through the refusal of the President to sign it, is, under the circumstances, a matter for congratulation. The President in refusing to sign it, stated that he regretted that time did not permit him to send a veto to Congress giving his reasons why the bill should not become a law.

The franking privilege is restored in a measure, that is, as to public documents and seeds, which go free until the first of December next, after that agricultural reports alone go free. We cannot see that any good has come of all the tinkering which has been done to the postal laws in the last two years. The change was first started in a spirit of opposition to the press. The motive was a mean and contemptible one, and the ink had hardly had time to dry on the paper on which it was written before its originators were ashamed of their work. This present session hastened to change the law, and now as far as the country press is concerned (we do not know how it affects our city brethren) it is easy enough, but it still has its little petty annyoances. For instance, if we receive a subscriber between days of publication, and desire to get his paper to him at once, we must pay transient rates which are two cents an ounce, costing as much so send that one paper as it does on our regular day to send sixteen papers. The next week they will carry the same paper for one eight of a cent. This is the way the law is explained to us by the authorities here. The next Congress will no doubt continue to make changes until we shall finally have the old law back again with the franking privilege restored with all its errors and abuses.

The next Congress will indeed be a peculiar one, in which there would now seem to be little hope for liberal and patriotic action upon any of the important questions pending, by both Houses. The lower House will be under the control of the men who commanded the rebel forces. Whatever they can accomplish to recover in the Capitol what they lost in the field, will be done. They will hardly dare attempt to nominally re-enslave the blacks, but they will do what they can to reduce them to real servitude. If they can do anything toward rescinding the constitutional amendments, we may expect them to do it. And rebel claims on the treasury will probably swarm in the lower branch of the National legislature. But the Senate, however, will prevent the enactment of these schemes, until the people have had enough of such a House, and the Republicans have learned wisdom.

The Republican is growling at Hon. W. K. Alexander because he voted against the repeal of Local Option, and says he disappointed some of its best friends. What a pity.—Berichter.

We do say that W. K. Alexander disappointed his friends here in Bellefonte, by voting against the repeal of Local Option law. The reason is plain. His friends were not temperance men. The temperance men were disappointed; agreeably so, not expecting a man advanced for office by P. Gray Meek, to vote for the right. The anti-temperance men were very much enraged, because, as they allege, he pledged himself to vote for repeal and then violated that pledge. So it was a disappointment all round. Whether it is honorable for a man to pledge himself to one party and then vote for another, we leave the Berichter to say. We should have preferred to have had Mr. Alexander declare his principles before election like a man, and stand or fall upon the issue. We believe in a square vote.

Old Centre is as strong for temperance as ever.

The importance of nominating the best men of any party for places of trust has never been more satisfactorily illustrated, heretofore, than it has in the lower house of the Pennsylvania Legislature, during the present session. It will be remembered, that in several counties, containing large Republican majorities Democrats were elected to the Legislature many of whom have proved to be of the lowest order of bar-room politicians; and especially, is this the case with the Democrats, who were elected from Allegheny County.

Owing to their temporary success, the Allegheny Democracy were enabled to successfully insist on their choice for speaker of the House, Mr. Patterson, who has proved to be an abortion and a disgrace to the state of Pennsylvania. That portion of the party who make any pretentions to honesty and respectability, are disgusted, and openly denounce him as being incompetent and a fraud of the first water, who don't find an apologist, even in the person of Alec McClure.

OUR ASSOCIATED PRESS LETTER.

PHILADELPHIA, March 17, 1875.

MYSTERIOUS.

About ten days ago, thousands of our dwelling houses in this city were marked during the previous night with numbers, cabalistic signs, and other devices. During the next two or three nights, almost every house in the city was marked in like manner, and since then the press and people have been doing their level best to find out what it means. The police have been eagerly endeavoring to detect the persons engaged in the work, but have been singularly unfortunate in their efforts to get any clue to the mystery.

All kinds of rumors attach to this marvellous marking of habitations; the most wide-spread is that which dooms the city to a dreadful massacre by the Roman Catholics. It is alleged that the marking is done in three different characters, and nervous old women tell us that this is done to indicate houses wherein all are Protestants, where all are Catholics, and where Catholic servants are employed in the household.

There is no question but the marking of so many houses has created a most profound sensation, and I know of many men who are not at all timid generally speaking, that, in anticipation of trouble on St. Patrick's Day, have loaded up their old army muskets, examined their revolvers, and have prepared to do and die in defence of their altars and their fires.

I give no theory of my own regarding this all-absorbing mystery. I simply mention the fact of such a strange occurrence having taken place; that the attention of the Mayor of the city has been called to it, of the inability of the authorities to detect those engaged in the nefarious work, and of column after column in the daily papers, endeavoring to explain all about it. My own house has been numbered and if I should suddenly cease to be your correspondent please bear in mind that at midnight on the 10th of March, I was doomed.

ICE GORGES.

About a week was spent in futile efforts, by our city authorities to blow up the ice in the Schuylkill river, in order to save the bridges from destruction. A great many pounds of powder were exploded in this way to the delight of the urchins whose taste for squibs, and crackers, and powder, seems never to be appeased. The ice gorge in our river is above Fairmount dam. This dam is at the head of tide water in the Schuylkill, and was built for the purpose of supplying our city with water. Commencing with the dam on either side of the river Fairmount Park extends upwards for several miles. The Park is managed by a commission of aristocratic nonentities, who, in what they regarded as an act of superlative wisdom, prohibited our ice companies from cutting any ice in the river fronting the Park Grounds.

I differ with the Park Commissioners and regard their "superlative wisdom" the most arrogant nonsense. It prevented the employment of from 300 to 400 laborers cutting ice for a month or more, and it forces the purchase of $500,000 worth of ice from New England. If the Mayor had put a pound of powder in the empty cavities of the heads of the Park Commissioners, where brains ought to be, and set fire to it, he would have done a much wiser thing than attempting to blow up an ice gorge with porter bottles filled with blasting powder. By doing so, he would rid our city of a set of fossilized antediluvians, the city would save her half millilion dollars for Yankee ice, and the ice gorge would be nicely stored away for use next summer.

CIVIL RIGHTS.

The question of civil rights, promises to become violent wrongs, and if those whom the rights were intended to benefit, fail to act civilly under them, violence and wrong will certainly follow. Thus far, nobody has been seriously harmed in this city, although a few darkies have, at the instigation of shyster lawyers in search of a case, permitted themselves to become the dupes of these seedy attorneys. One of these colored men, so influenced, went into the best barber shop in this city, the proprietor of which is a handsome yellow fellow, nearly the color of clay, and said to be a near relative of one of our most eminent statesmen, now deceased. He applied for a shave, and was refused upon the ground that "common white folks can't get shaved in this emporium of art, and low niggers can't come in no-how."

The colored applicant for a shave, was not a gentleman likely to favorably impress the tonsorial artist, and he was therefore requested to leave. "I prosecute you for damages," said the aggreived; hastily handing him a 25 cent note, (the price of a shave in that establishment) the clay-colored fellow remarked, "You are not damaged to a greater extent than the price of a shave, and here is the money." This sum enabled the 'damaged dark' to purchase 8 whiskies "straight" and a nickel left over for a sandwich for lunch; in his exuberance, he forgot to report to his adviser, the lawyer, and his attorney had his little disappointment for his trouble.

At the hotels, the subject will be quietly disposed of in this way; the proprietor invariably assigns his patrons to the lodging rooms he, the proprietor, selects; at the dining rooms it has always been the custom for waiters to seat travelers just where it suits the waiter to place them. Colored people will be so placed as not to interfere with the sensibilities of the most fastidious, and as for places of amusement, they are simply luxuries that we are not forced to enjoy either in the company of respectable blacks, or whites of disreputable character.

HON. JAMES G. BLAINE.

This distinguished statesman who has just stepped down and out from the Speakership of the National House of Representatives, has been here, the guest of one of our citizens. The Ex Speaker is not at all reticent regarding political matters. The result in New Hampshire was exceedingly gratifying to him; that contest was fought squarely against the third-term nonsense—the Republican Convention which made the State ticket, having directly declared its hostility to Grant as a third-term candidate—and it shows how much stronger the party is than Grant.

Mr. Blaine believes the only issue before the country to-day is "whether loyal men, or those lately in arms against the nation, shall control its political affairs." He looks upon Generals Gordon of Georgia, and Lamar of Mississippi as the ablest of the 120 ex-officers of the confederate government now in Congress; as the most conservative members of congress from the South, and as the most brilliant and effective public speakers on the Democratic side in either House of Congress, and their failure to direct the popular sentiment in favor of Democracy in New Hampshire, after their having made an exhaustive canvass of the State is conclusive evidence to Mr. Blaine that the country is not yet ready to pass over into Democratic hands the administration of the government.

Mr. Blaine is entirely satisfied that the paramount question on which the contest of 1876 will be fought is simply "whether loyal men or ex-confederates and their sympathizers shall be trusted with the administration of public affairs."

As far as the Democratic candidates for the Presidency are concerned, Mr. Blaine believes that the nomination lies between Hon. S. J. Randall of Penna. Senator Thurman of Ohio, and Governor Tilden of New York, with Gen. Gordon as the most probable candidate for Vice President. J. W. F.

STATE ITEMS.

—A little boy named Gleichour died of lock-jaw on Monday week, at Johnstown.

—There were 403 deaths in Philadelphia during the week ending at noon on the 6th. Of these 105 were from diseases of the lungs.

—Pottstown has sent $220 in cash and about $700 worth of clothing and provisions to the Kansas and Nebraska grasshopper sufferers.

—They have a slander sensation at Ridgway which promises rich developments. Won't they wait, please, until the Brooklyn business is settled?

—Somebody in Philadelphia thinks that about $300 worth of salt, applied to the ice gorges on the Schuylkill, would melt the ice and open the channel.

—Joseph Augustine, of Eastville, Clinton Co., is the champion shaver, not of notes, but of shingles. He shaved eight hundred shingles in nine hours, or an average of one shingle in forty and a half seconds.

—The diamond drill at Bell's tunnel, near Mount Carmel, Northumberland county, Pa., has cut the Skidmore vein measuring eighteen feet six inches. The bore-hole has reached a depth of almost eight hundred feet.

—The new church of the United Brethren at East Conemaugh, will be dedicated on Sunday, March 21st, 1875. Bishop Edwards will conduct the dedicatory services, assisted by a large number of distinguished ministers.

—A Susquehanna county lawyer drew a writ, the other day, when a deputy sheriff went to serve, and found the party had been dead for a week or two. The officer retured the paper indorsed, "Present place of abode unknown."

—James Lorrian Dunn, Esq., died on Sunday, March 7, at the residence of his son-in-law, DeB. Keim, in Reading. He was in his ninetieth year, and one of the oldest members of the Berks county bar, and held various positions of trust and honor. He had been an invalid for twelve years past.

—Joseph Mishow, of Williamsport, celebrated his one hundred and first birthday last Thursday. It is claimed as a remarkable fact that he has never had a single hour of sickness in his life, and at the present time is reported to be in the enjoyment of good health, and daily moves about among his friends and acquaintances.

—The Easton Dispatch says: Mrs. Mary Laird, living for some two years past with her son, at Firthtown, died this morning at the advanced age of one hundred and two. She had never been in the cars but once; was in the possession of all her faculties at the time of her death, and delighted to talk of her past life.

—A Pottsville man, whose chickens had been stolen, advertised for the thief to come back and take the coop. The next day the following was received at the Miners' Journal office: "I examined with care the coop of Mr. D. G. Matthews, when I stole his chickens, and had I found it a good one I would have taken it along at the time. I decline his offer in this morning's Journal. THE THIEF."

—The husband and brothers of a lady who died in Germantown, Philadelphia, on the 28th of February, are disputing for the possession of her body. Her husband, it seems, deserted her soon after their marriage, and the brothers supported and cared for her up to the time of her death, when they had her buried. The neglected husband then became suddenly imbued with great affection for her, and demanded the body, which was refused. He has taken the matter to court.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

Poetry.

WHAT IS HIS CREED.

He left a load of anthracite
In front of a poor widow's door,
When the deep snow frozen and white,
Wrapped street and square, mountain and moor.
That was his deed;
He did it well;
"What was his creed?"
I cannot tell.

Blessed "in his basket and his store."
In sitting down and rising up;
When more he got, he gave the more,
Withholding not the crust or cup,
He took the lead
In each good task.
"What was his creed?"
I did not ask.

His charity was like the snow,
Soft, white, and silent in its fall;
Not like the noisy winds that blow
From shivering trees the leaves; a pall
For flower and weed.
Dropping below.
"What was his creed?"
The poor may know.

He had great faith in loaves of bread,
For hungry people, young and old.
And hope inspired, kind words he said.
To those he sheltered from the cold.
For we must feed
As well as pray.
"What was his creed?"
I cannot say.

In works he did not put his trust,
His faith in words he never writ;
He loved to share his cup and crust
With all mankind who needed it;
In time of need
A friend was he.
"What was his creed?"
He told not me.

He put his trust in Heaven, and he Worked well with hand and head;
And what he gave in charity
Sweetened his sleep and daily bread.
Let us take heed,
For life is brief,
"What was his creed?"
"What his belief?"

GO WORK IN MY VINEYARD.

What am I doing for him;
Who did so much for me!
Who suffered the agony, sorrow, and shame,
The death on the cruel tree.
What am I doing! doing for Him,
Who suffered all this for me.

What am I doing for him!
Am I laboring day by day,
Striving to win some straying one in,
From the broad to the narrow way!
Trying to follow the Master's steps,
The Master's voice to obey!

How can I do aught for Him,
Who needeth nothing from me!
Ah, a deed wrought from love to the Master above,
Will ever accepted be;
"Inasmuch as ye did it to one of these,
Ye have done it unto me."

Perhaps my tasks are so small,
They seem almost unnoticed to be;
Yet some little place in the vineyard's wide space
I know is allotted to me,
And sooner or later God's blessing will come,
If I fill it faithfully.

And I'm glad he knows it all;
My trying, my failing to win;
And will still look in love from the heaven above,
And help me and pardon my sin;
And give strength to conquor, that I may at last,
Hear this welcome, "Enter ye in."

Our Story Teller.

TAKEN AT HIS WORD.

A wide cook-kitchen, after the airy fashion of New England, with the breadth of grape blossoms coming in at the open windows, and a glistening tin pan on the table full of dewy, scarlet strawberries, waiting to be hulled—this is our scene, and our "dramatis personæ" consist of Mrs. Perkins, whose drowsily-clicking knitting-needles keep time to the purr of the overgrown Maltese cat, and a pretty young girl, with rather a flushed face, who had just entered from a door leading to the hall.

"Well," said Mrs. Perkins, looking up with that ineffably wise expression which is imparted to the human countenance by round silver spectacles perched obliquely on the bridge of the nose, "he ain't asleep, is he?"

"Yes, he is," was the answer.

"Glory be thanked for that at least," said Mrs. Perkins, apparently impaling herself on a long knitting-needle, which, however, entered harmlessly into the horn sheath that she wore at her side, encased in a scalloped red flannel. "There shall be five minutes of peace at least. You are tired, ain't you, Dorah?"

"Yes," said Theodora White, "I am rather tired."

But her languid voice spoke plainly that the more accurate phrase would have been "very tired."

Theodore White was a slender, soft-eyed girl of eighteen, with a complexion of pearly clearness, and a rose apiece on her cheeks—a girl with a dimple on her chin, and a pretty, pleading way of looking at you when she spoke. She sat down beside the window, where the mignonette-scented grape blossoms were swaying in the summer air, and leaned her forehead against the casement.

Mrs. Perkins eyed her with an owl-like glance of sympathy.

"It's a shame, so it is," said Mrs. Perkins, emphatically. "A man hasn't no business to be so tryin'; no, not if he was sick forty times over. Scold, snap, snarl, this ain't right at all, and t'other thing is wrong! That's the way he keeps it up. I'd as soon wait on the 'old boy' himself."

Theodora smiled faintly, and arched her eyebrows.

"Why, Mrs. Perkins, you don't mean to compare my Uncle Joseph with so obnoxious a person as you allude to?" she said, demurely.

"Well," said Mrs. Perkins, reflectively "they ain't so unlike after all. I do declare sometimes when he gets in his tantrums, I've two minds and a half to [illegible] There ain't no sense in a man's bein' so unreasonable. You can't please him no way you can fix it."

"We can at least try, Mrs. Perkins."

"Yes, and that's just what's a spilin' him. He knows very well that if he was to want the moon, you'd hunt up the longest step ladder and try to reach it down. It al'ays did spile children to let them have all they want, and your Uncle Joseph ain't nothing but a growed up child."

"But I don't let him have all he wants Mrs. Perkins."

"And a pretty kettle o' fish there'd be if you did, Humph!" and the old housekeeper pounced upon her ball as if she had, for a moment, identified it with the personage under discussion.

"It mightn't be such a bad idea," said Theodora, after a moments thoughtful silence.

"Be you crazy?" demanded Mrs. Perkins, tartly.

"Hush!" Theodore started from her seat with uplifted finger. "He is awake, he wants me."

And she was gone, swift, noiseless as a white-winged dove, before Mrs. Perkins could volunteer to go in her stead.

"Yes," said Mrs. Perkins to herself, "it is a shame. He seems to think she's made of cast iron and India rubber—the old torment!"

With this rather illogical expression of her opinion, Mrs. Perkins resumed her knitting more vigorously than ever.

Meanwnile Theodore hastened upstairs into a closely-curtained sick-room, where a querulous old gentleman lay, tortured with a great deal of "hypo," and a very little actual illness. But Uncle Joseph White chose to believe that he was very ill; and who, pray, was a better judge of the state of his bodily health than himself?

He screwed his face up into the semblance of a nut-cracker, as his niece hurriedly entered the apartment and came up to his bedside.

"I've been thumping on the floor till my arms were ready to drop out of their sockets!" he groaned. "Are you deaf down stairs? or has old Perkins forgotten there's any one in the world but herself and her snuff box?"

"I am very sorry, uncle."

"Actions speak louder than words," snarled Uncle Joseph, ungraciously.

"How do you feel now, Uncle Joseph?" asked Theodore, soothingly.

"I'm worse."

"Are you?"

"Pulse higher—skin hot—face flushed; of course I'm worse. The confounded hot room is enough to throw one into a fever; open every door and window—quick!"

Without an instant's hesitation Theodora unbarred the blinds, and threw open four large windows and two doors. The light from the western sky streamed like a flood of fiery radiance in the room; the draft, whirling through, caught newspapers, fluttered the leaves of books, and even upset Uncle Joseph's pet bottle of medicine.

"O-w-w-w!" roared the sick man with vehemence, that proved his lungs at least to be free from disease; "do you want to blind me—to blow me away?"

"You told me to do it, Uncle Joseph."

"Shut the windows quick—draw the curtains," groaned Uncle Joseph. "Who's that battering down the door?"

"It's only a very gentle knocking uncle."

"Then I'm nervous. Go and see."

Presently Theodora returned.

"It's Major Crowfoot, uncle; he sends his complements, and wishes to learn how you are."

"Tell him to go to the deuce."

"Yes uncle."

"Well," said Uncle Joseph, as his niece returned to his bedside after a momentary absence, "what did he say?"

"He seemed very much offended, uncle."

"Offended! at what, pray?" demanded Uncle Joseph.

"I suppose at being told to go to the deuce!" answered Theodore, quietly.

"Girl," ejaculated the invalid, raising himself half way upon his elbow, "you didn't tell him to go to the deuce!"

"Yes sir."

Joseph White fell back, flat and motionless, among his pillows.

"Theodora, you're a fool!"

"I'm very sorry, uncle," said Theodora, beginning to whimper.

Uncle Joseph stared at her in surprise. Could it be possible that the dreary days and weeks of her steadfast attendance had weakened her intellect and turned her brain?

"Give me my water-gruel," he said briefly, after a few moments' pondering over the unwelcome possibility.

Theodora brought in a neat little china bowl, with a silver spoon lying on the snowy, folded napkin that flanked it on the tray,

Uncle Joseph took one taste, and threw down the spoon with a petulant sound not unlike a bark.

"Trash! trash! Insipid as dishwater. Throw it to the pigs!"

Theodora took up the bowl and started obediently for the door.

"Here, here!" roared Uncle Joseph, "Where are you going to?"

"To the pig-pen, uncle."

"Are you crazy, girl? The gruel's well enough, only Mrs. Perkins forgot the nutmeg."

"But, uncle," said Theodora, tasting daintily of the contents of the bowl, it's insipid as dish-water."

"Will you allow me to have an opinion of my own?" snarled Uncle Joseph. "It's very good, if that old crone down stairs will add the nutmeg and give it another boil. Quick now—I'm getting hungry. A man must eat, even if he's at death's door."

A minute afterwards Mrs. Perkins was surprised by Theodora's entrance.

"Well," said the housekeeper, "what's awanting now?"

"A little grated nutmeg in this gruel, and uncle would like it warmed up once more."

"What are you smiling about, Dora?"

"Was I smiling?"

"Your eyes were, if your mouth wasn't," said Mrs. Perkins, keenly.

"Will you be as quick as you can, Mrs. Perkins?" said Theodora. "He says he is hungry."

But when Theodora re-entered her uncle's room, had taken another tack.

"Why didn't you stay all day?" he growled.

"Indeed, uncle, I hurried all I could," pleaded Theodora. "Here's the gruel all smoking."

But Uncle Joseph shook his head.

"It's too late; I've lost all my appetite," he moaned.

"Won't you have the gruel, uncle?"

"No, I won't."

And Uncle Joseph closed his eyes, as if to signify he was too weak to debate the question further. He waited anxiously for Theodore to press the question further, but she did not, and presently he opened his eyes the least little bit in the world.

"Theodora?"

"Sir?"

"I'll just try one spoonful of that gruel before it gets cold."

"Why, uncle, I threw it away."

"Threw—my—gruel—away?" gasped the sick man, breathlessly.

"You told me you did not want it, uncle."

"I told you so? Furies and fiddlesticks! You might know by this time that I don't mean what I say. Get me some more, quick! If I hadn't been bed-ridden for a year, I could go twice as fast as you do!" he added, grumblingly. "I never saw such a snail in my life. Oh, dear! to think I shall never walk again."

Uncle Joseph lay counting the seconds until his niece brought in a second bowl of gruel, this time so deliciously made that even he could not find fault with it.

"Uncle," said Theodora, as she set it on the table at his bedside, "the doctor said yesterday that he really thought, if you were to try, you could walk as well as anybody."

"The doctor's a fool," said Uncle Joseph, "and you may tell him so with my compliments."

"I will, uncle, the next time he comes."

"Theodora?"

"Sir?"

"If you do, I'll disinherit you."

"Very well, uncle."

"Theodora, you'll have to feed me."

"Yes, uncle."

"Stop, stop—it's hot—you're choking me!" But Theodora kept resolutely on.

"S-t-o-p!" spluttered Uncle Joseph, springing nimbly to the other side of the bed. "What do you mean, Theodora? Didn't I tell you to stop? I don't believe there's an inch of skin left on my throat."

"You told me yourself, uncle, that you don't mean what you say. How was I to know that this was an exception?"

An irate rejoinder trembled on Uncle Joseph's tongue, when suddenly he caught sight of a blue column of smoke wreathing up under his window.

"What's that smoke?" he ejaculated.

"I think it's Mrs. Perkins, sir, putting fresh kindlings on the fire."

"It isn't!" yelled Uncle Joseph. "The house is on fire!"

Theodora dropped the spoon and bowl, and rushed out of the room, shrieking:

"The house is on fire! help! murder! thieves!"

The servants below stairs caught up the cry and echoed it in shrill dismay. Uncle Joseph listened with bristling hair and dilated eyes.

"Help! help!" he bawled, but no one responded. Louder still he yelled, but yet in vain.

"Am I to stay in my bed and be burned to death?" he asked himself, and scrambled out with an agility that fairly surprised himself.

The servants were arrayed on the lawn, staring in all directions to find the exact location of the fire, when the gardener uttered a shrick:

"If there ain't master, as hasn't left his bed for years, a runnin' as if a tiger was after him!"

"Where—where's the fire?" panted Uncle Joseph, gazing wildly around him.

Mrs. Perkins rushed to the front door, her cap-strings streaming.

"I never saw such a pack of born idiots in my life," she gasped. "There ain't no fire—only a few pieces of green wood I put on the kitchen fire. One would think you'd never seen smoke afore, and—why, if there ain't master!"

"Theodora," said Mr. White, looking somewhat sheepish, "where did you see fire?"

"I didn't see it, uncle, but you said the house was on fire," Theodora made answer demurely, "and of course I thought you must know. Please, uncle, go back to bed again."

"I won't!" said Uncle Joseph, gathering the skirts of his wrapper about him.

"But, uncle, you're sick."

"No, I'm not!"

"Uncle, do you really mean it?"

"Of course I do, Theo!"

And he did mean it. The cure had been effected; and Theodora mentally congratulated herself on the success of the plan of treatment. And Uncle Joseph never alluded to the day on which his niece had taken him so implicitly at his word.

SOMETHING AWFUL!

"And I say you shall!"

"And I say I shan't!"

The last speaker was Deacon Ezra Perkins' daughter, Maria, and thus irreverently she answered her father, the deacon himself. She was young and pretty, with curly black hair, dark, flashing eyes, and ruby lips. She was slight in appearance, but determined in her manner.

"I won't marry cousin Keziah," she continued, excitedly; "and he may have as many thousands as he has winters marked on his bald head. And he can stay here until he dies before I give my consent. The idea! Such an old, miserly, mean, bandy-legged——"

"Why, Maria," put in her mother, "how can you speak thus of your relative? Why, I'm ashamed of you."

"Maria!" thundered the deacon, "this rattling of your tongue must cease. It is highly improper for a deacon's daughter. Your cousin is a staid and sober man. And he's not so old either. He's my junior by ten years, and I'm only fifty-five. He's loved you since you were a child, and has waited for you until you are almost eighteen. I think he'll make you a better husband then these young chaps about here. And, mind you, don't let me catch Will Haven around here again. It's he that's made you so disobedient and undutiful."

"You just never mind Will Haven, father," answered his daughter, spiritedly; "he's worth a hundred Keziahs, with all their money and land. And now listen to me, father, and you, too, mother—If I can't marry Will Haven, I'll—I'll do something awful."

So saying, she ran out of the house, almost knocking down her cousin Keziah, who had just entered the room.

"Well, Ezra," asked he, eagerly, "what does my little madcap say—will she have me?"

"She don't like you, Keziah," answered the deacon, bluntly; "but I'll bring her around."

"That's right," replied the old bachelor; "she's a little too forward, and wants curbing. We must watch her, Ezra, or she'll not turn out the pure and virtuous girl that a deacon's daughter and my future wife ought to be."

"What!" said the deacon's wife, bristling up, "do you mean to say that there is anything against my Maria?"

"No—no, not yet," protested the jealous old miser; "but we must have a sharp eye upon her and that young devil, Will Haven."

"I think Keziah is right," said the deacon; "she threatened to do something awful, and we must be careful."

This closed the conversation on that topic.

Meanwhile, Maria was hastening down a narrow lane to the place, hidden from all sight, where she was sure to find her lover awaiting her.

Will Haven was there and received her with outstretched arms.

He was the son of a neighboring farmer. Poor but proud, he was not ashamed to work in the field as a mere laborer. Physically developed, he presented a manly appearance, broad-chested and powerful, such as the weak-kneed denizens of cities can never aspire to. He was about twenty-four or five years old, and though he had no competence, he felt assured that in seeking to make Maria his wife, he but followed the dictates of his noble nature to provide for her a comfortable house with the sweat of his brow.

He was indeed one of nature's noblemen. Maria's parents had at first encouraged the suit between the young folks; but since a few weeks, Maria's rich old cousin had lived with them and filled their minds with the foolish desire to see their daughter the wealthy wife of an old man she did not love, rather than the helpmate of a young workingman, joyfully and willingly sharing the toils and burdens of life.

"Oh, Will!" sobbed Maria, leaning on his arm; 'father and mother want me to marry cousin Keziah ever so much; and I won't and I told them I'd do something awful, and don't know what to do.'

'Let's elope,' suggested Will.

'Neither of us have any money with which to pay our way,' answered Maria, sadly; 'and besides, that nasty old cousin of mine has a room right opposite to mine, and peeps through the keyhole of my door, and watches me like a cat does a mouse."

"He does, eh," exclaimed Will, in anger; "I'll pay him off for that. I know a plan. Here, let me whisper in your ear. Will you try it?"

Maria hesitated for a moment, cast a penetrating glance upon her lover's face, then, as if satisfied that he was a man of honor, she gave her consent to as wild a project as ever entered the brains of two young people.

It was the night of the same day.

Maria had retired early, pleading illness, and the deacon and his nephew now sought their respective rooms.

As the old miser passed Maria's room he saw a light streaming through the half-opened door.

He thought it strange that Maria, having gone to bed more than two hours ago, should still have the light burning.

At the same time he fancied he heard the voice of a man engaged in conversation.

Unable to restrain his curiosity, he peeped in as he passed.

Horror of horrors!

There, in the bedroom of his intended wife, was Will Haven.

And there sat Maria, his cousin, a deacon's daughter, actually on the floor assisting to pull off her lover's boots.

Keziah dropped his candle, and gave a scream that brought the deacon and his wife upon the scene.

For all answer to their inquiries he pointed to Maria's door.

The deacon tried the knob, and the door, being unlocked, readily opened, revealing Maria and William standing in the centre of the room, looking confused and guilty.

A general silence ensued, which was first broken by the old bachelor.

"I won't marry her!" exclaimed he, in pious horror; "no, indeed. My wife must be innocent and pure, and she is ——"

"Silence, old man!" cried Will, seizing him by the throat; "Heaven's not purer than is Maria; one further word against her, and I would choke you, though you are her cousin."

So saying, he flung the wretched old man in a corner of the room.

"But," whined the deacon, "who will believe it? All the village will know that a man was found in my daughter's room at the dead of night."

"Oh, Maria!" sobbed her mother, "what made you go and do it? Oh, your character is entirely gone now!"

"I told you I'do something awful," demurely answered Maria, twisting the corner of her apron.

"Look here, young man," exclaimed deacon, advancing towards Will, "my daughter's reputation must be saved. You must marry her."

"But, sir," answered our hero, hardly able to repress his joy, "we have nothing with which to start house,"

"I'll give a thousand dollars," cried cousin Keziah from his corner; "only marry her and keep it out of the papers."

"Darling", murmured Will, gently, "will you be mine?"

"Yes," answered Maria, sinking into his arms.

And thus the young people were made both happy and rich by their artful dodge.

THE LANDLORD'S VOW.

BY MRS. M. A. HOLT.

Late one evening in December there came a feeble knock at our door, and I hastened to open it, half expecting to find some shivering beggar waiting for admission. But what was my surprise to find little Nellie Perry, a child scarcely three years old, who was the daughter of our nearest neighbor. How she came to our door was a mystery that I could not solve, for poor Nellie had been an invalid for many a day, scarcely able to walk across the floor of her own little room. But there she stood in the darkness, shivering like a leaf in the Autumn winds; and as the lamplight fell upon her pale face, I discovered an unnatural wildness in her large, black eyes, and she seemed paralyzed with some terrible spell. I seized the child and lifted her into the room; and as I placed her in the arm chair by the glowing fire, I tried to find out the secret of her visit. But the child only stared wildly about the room, and not a word came from her pale lips. Just then a thought occurred to me, and in a moment I comprehended the truth. I called out in a startled tone to my good husband, who was quietly dreaming upon the sofa, and he sprang up, half bewildered, and inquired what was the matter.

"Go over to Perry's, quick, John; for I know that they are in trouble." And I pointed at the child, who was seated by the fire.

He needed no second bidding, but, hastily seizing his heavy overcoat, rushed out into the darkness, murmuring threats of vengeance upon the village landlord. After his steps were no longer heard, I turned to see what I could do for the frightened child, who still remained motionless in the old arm-chair. I removed the thin shawl that had been but a slight protection to the little, frail form out in the chill night-winds. Gently I took the still trembling child in my arms, and tried to soothe her into slumber. I made her understand at last that her mother and little sister baby would be cared for, and then a sigh of relief came from her quivering lips. Soon she fell into a restless slumber, and I laid her gently away upon the sofa.

"There has been some terrible scene enacted over to Perry's," I said half aloud; for I knew that no ordinary transaction would so bewilder little Nellie.

I opened the door and peered into the darkness that hid the home of poor Mrs. Perry from my view. At last I heard the sound of voices in the distance, and in a few moments a sleigh appeared in the dim darkness, which halted at our door. Mrs. Perry, with her baby clasped in her arms, was half lifted from the seat, and borne by my husband and a neighbor into the house.

"Go for the doctor—quick Smith!" said my husband; and the neighbor jumped in the sleigh, and drove swiftly away.

"The baby is seriously injured," said John, in answer to my questions. "I just got there in time to save them both from being murdered by the drunken madman. In a moment more the child would have been crushed beneath his heavy feet. Landlord Jones has accomplished his desires at last!"

A faint cry from the wounded babe came to our ears, and the pale, frightened mother lifted the shawl from its face. I shall never forget the sight that met my eyes as I looked upon the bruised and bloody face. The wretch had seized the little baby form from its mother's arms, and dashed it upon the hard floor, and just as my husband entered had raised his heavy boot to crush out its brains. The doctor came, but could not do much for the little sufferer. We dressed the wounds as best we could, and then the medical man went away with a sad look upon his face. The child will die, he only said, and then I detected a half-hidden tear in his eyes.

All through the long night we watched by the side of the little, moaning sufferer with aching hearts. I could not offer a word of consolation to the distracted mother, for every time I attempted to speak my voice became hoarse and unnatural, and I was forced to desist. It was a sad, weary night, and God grant that I may never experience such a weight of sadness as then!

The pale light of morning just began to break over the hills in the east when the baby spirit took its flight away from the mangled casket, and passed up to the better land beyond the fading stars. We dressed the sweet babe of one bright Summer in spotless white stillness of the grave.

Then our attention was called to little Nellie, who has just awakened with a sad cry. Her face was flushed, and her eyes wore the same unnatural brightness. She looked wildly around the room, and did not seem to recognize her own mother. Reason was dethroned, and the child was an idiot!

When the father became sober, we called him in to look upon his dead child. He looked upon the pure, sweet face, wrung his hands in silence agony, and turned away without a word. We led him into the presence of little Nellie; but as soon as she looked upon him she gave one loud shriek, and fell to the floor. The broken-hearted man rushed out of the house, and when we saw him again he was cold and dead. He went to the icy river, and plunged down into the cold, deep water, and before he could be rescued from its depths he was dead.

Only a few words of explanation, and then my story will be ended. George Perry has been a victim of rum for several years, spending his money for the fiery poison. Poor Mrs. Perry has suffered only as a drunkard's wife can suffer. But brighter days came at last, for a secret temperance society had been formed in the little village, and her husband was persuaded to join the same. For a whole year he had kept his vows and pledges, and happiness came again into the little cottage.

But the landlord, a base wretch, made a terrible vow that he would have George Perry in his clutches again, though it cost him his soul's happiness in the future world. But George resisted nobly, and only fell when a cunningly-devised plan was executed to entrap him. The cruel landlord did not reap so great a harvest as he anticipated, for only one evening did poor George spend money at his bar; for ere the next day ended his victim was a corpse.

The landlord knew that he was the cause of all the misery that I have recorded; but still he kept on in the old evil way. No sign of repentance he betrayed, no look of remorse came over his face; and he once made a sneering boast that he had kept the vow he had made in regard to poor George Perry.

"Mother wants to know if you won't please to lend her your preserving kettle—'cause as how she wants to preserve?" "We would with pleasure boy, but the fact is, the last time we lent it to your mother she preserved it so effectually that we have never seen it since." "Well, you needn't be so sassy about your old kettle, mother wouldn't have troubled you again, only we send you have a new one."

Moral and Religious.

Closer to Christ.

Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy. Matt. 5, 7.

Blest are the men whose feelings move,
And melt with sympathy and love;
From Christ the Lord they shall obtain
Like sympathy and love again.

Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you. Eph. 4, 32.

The secret of comfort, purity and power, is in close union with Christ. Punshon says truly: "The sole remedy of all our woes, all our apprehensions, all our sorrow, is just closer to Christ—closer to Christ in personal experience, closer to Christ in perpetual reliance, closer to Christ in daily communion, closer to Christ in importunate prayer, closer to Christ in honesty and hearty work! When the good Dr. Alexander, of Princeton, New Jersey, lay dying, some one came to him and quoted a passage for him as he lay half-unconscious, "I know in whom I have believed!" A fire lit up his glazing eye, and the old Christian warrior roused himself as for an utterance of latest testimony, and he said to his startled listeners, 'No, I cannot allow even a preposition between me and my Saviour; 'I know in whom I have believed!' Let us go up to that level; let the great baptized heart of the church get up to that level of intimate, close, faithful union with Christ, and we and our cause are safe. No fear of overwhelming sorrow then, for we remember although God buries his workmen, he carries on his work. No fear of relaxed efforts then, for idleness will be seen in its hatefulness as a sin against boundless love.—No fear of straitened means and empty exchequers, and niggard doles, and small hearted liberalities then, for the frost of every heart must melt that is so near the Saviour.—Baptist Union.

We learn of good tidings of revivals from many quarters; but do the churches generally seem to know the time, 'that now it is high time to wake out of sleep,' and lay hold of the work at hand with the inspiration that comes of awakened sense of our growing, but quickly transcient opportunities? The boldest ventures upon the Divine promises are sure of the completest vindication. In the study of the Sunday-school lessons for the current months the churches may find several great practical truths, in the economy of aggressive Christian enterprise, which ought universally to be taken to heart, and which, if so appropriated, would effect almost a revolution in all our churches. Even the priests' feet are timid about touching the swift torrent which divides the wanderer from his promised inheritance. And even as the strange pathway opens, the lingering multitude of professed Christians hesitate, instead of making haste to pass over. The reproach of distrust and disobedience, with its consequences of feebleness, distractions and irresolution, should be rolled away, and thorough-going "preparations for the conquest" made. —Advance.

"The Hungry Heart."

Miss Caroline H. Dall, recently sent the following just and timely criticism to the Boston Daily Advertiser:—

In Lippincott's Magazine for August, there is a story called "The Hungry Heart," to which I should like to draw attention, as a sample of a class of stories increasing in number and harmful in tendency, apparently,—without the knowledge of their authors. "The Hungry Heart" is written by one who has a keen insight and a forcible style. He is capable of serving us with the very best, and for that reason it is more generous to select his story for criticism than that of a weaker man. The heroine of this story, a Mrs. Duvernois, leaves her husband, whose chief deficiency seems to be that ignorance of women to which ninety-nine men out of a hundred may plead guilty. In a little sea-side place where she passed the summer Mrs. Duvernois is looked upon as a widow, and in that character marries a young Dr. Leighton, who has never been farther from home than Harvard College. So far as the story is concerned, she marries him in the coolest fashion, without a thought of the man whom she has left, and whose money she is spending—and with only the sentimental dread that possibly his love may not last.

One would have thought that Dr. Leighton could hardly have got through the medical school without discovering that it would be a prudent thing for a man to know something of his wife's family; but he asks no questions, and marries his "darling." By and by James Duvernois claims her. She leaves Leighton for months, and he is too generous(!)to ask one inconvenient question. When she returns, her first husband follows her. In the endeavor to escape from both without detection she goes mad and drowns herself. The story is told as if any woman might do this, and any woman be driven to it, by the ordinary disappointments of married life. For all that appears, it was the most natural thing in life for a woman, refined, educated and in good social life, to take this fearful risk and succeed in cheating two intelligent men. Such representations go to make public opinion, and as the guardian of public morals, the press should call attention to them. Hearts may be hungry, but society has something to say when appetite is to be satisfied. Men may be unsympathetic, but women must be self-denying, and be grateful when fortune does not throw them under the foot of tyranny or vice.

A PRESENT DUTY OF THE FREEDMEN.

The Civil Rights Act having removed certain of the more intolerable grievances which devolved upon the colored people from their former condition of servitude, the time is favorable for a united effort, on the part of every patriotic Christian, to further the elevation of those of the Freed men whose mental and spiritual training had been neglected. It must be remembered that equality of civil rights implies greater responsibilities and higher duties. In order that the newly conferred privileges may be thoroughly and rightly enjoyed and exercised by the colored people, they must be educated—their moral and intellectual faculties must be trained and directed. If they are allowed to remain in ignorance they will become the tools of unscrupulous politicians, who will take the earliest opportunity to contract the enlarged liberty so tardily obtained. The mental and moral advancement of the colored laborers of the South will win for them the respect of those who may now despise them as belonging to an inferior race. Caste prejudice will subside to the influence of culture and Christianity—the source of the highest culture.

In this great and pressing work of developing the faculties and ennobling the life of the colored population of the South, the more favored pastors and people of the same race in the North should at once bestir themselves with greater energy and zeal. Every denomination in both sections of our common country should unite in bringing the Gospel and the means of education within the reach of those who have been long withheld from the priceless blessings which these bestow. The Protestant Episcopal Church is stretching out its hands to help and raise those who ever since slavery was abolished, have been growing more and more desirous of aid to attain a higher plane of being; and that denomination has met with gratifying success. Upon the Methodist Episcopal Church the negro of the South has strong claims, and we have the hope that it will not be found to falter in using its facilities to the utmost in his behalf. We would not be understood assuming that nothing has been done for the more neglected of the colored people; but what we do desire is that Protestant churches now begin to place among them educational agencies more in number and greater in efficiency then ever before.

The Church of Rome is striving to convert the negroes of the South into subjects of the Vatican, who will be held in her thralldom with iron grasp. The protestant churches should at least show equal zeal and if they are outstriped in the race they will have themselves to blame, for they are fighting the battle on their own ground. If the present time, in every way so favorable for the mission and the school in the South, is allowed to pass by unimproved by the descendants of those who formed institutions to preserve political and religious liberty, they may be accounted unworthy of the signal advantages.

By education and by Christianity the colored people can also be qualified to discharge those high functions of government to which they are called as citizens of this great Republic. It is the manhood which is attained by these means which will secure to them their rights and their privileges, make them valuable aids to national progress, and fit them, moreover, for an entrance into that everlasting kingdom which is prepared for the whole family of man.

CALDWELL'S

WINE AND IRON BITTERS

These celebrated Bitters are pure, safe and reliable; composed of Roots, Barks and Herbs with Citrate of Iron and pure native wine, made from the native grapes of California, the ingredients are choice, strengthening, purifying and life-giving medicinal agents, forming the most pleasant and healthy stimulating tonic and strengthening Bitters for improving the appetite giving tone and vital energy to the blood and system. For medicinal purposes, for family use, travelers, voyagers, etc., they cannot be surpassed.

These bitters are in an eminent degree strengthening, purifying, diuretic stimulating and nourishing to the whole system, giving new life and activity to every organ and part alike, without that ever recurring reaction that follows the use of most all other tonics and stimulants in the market. For

No other Bitters in the universe can equal them. I lack space for detailing the availability of these Bitters, but will briefly state its general effects upon the human system, as follows:

It absolutely Purifies the Blood. It speedily corrects all morbid changes in the Blood. It equalizes the circulation of the Blood. It regulates the supply and quality of the blood. It prepares the Blood to furnish a proper support to all the vital properties. It enriches the constituents of the Blood upon which the vital energy of the system is dependent. It infuses the proper degree of animal heat in the system. It purges from the system the morbid humors which retard its natural functions. It imparts vitality and elasticity to every organ of the body. It corrects all derangements, however trivial, which are the first origin of Disease. It promotes the operation of the digestive organs. It improves the appetite and removes all disagreeable feeling after eating. It perfects digestion, rendering it natural and easy. It acts as a mild and efficacious stomachic. It elevates the standard of all the vital forces. It strengthens the nervous fibres and diffuses a calm throughout the nervous system. It destroys all morbid conditions of the mind. It disperses dullness and languor. It banishes those clogs upon pleasure which produce gloom. It drives away those distressing symptoms which rob us of happiness. It revives the physical energies by infusing new life and power into the system. It fortifies the system against the dangers of malaria, fluctuations of the temperature changes in the climate, &c. In short, it prepares the system for the radical change to be wrought in its condition, and restores it to perfect health and natural vigor.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

PURE! DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked. "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

THE Blair County Republicans, who bolted the regular nomination for Legislature, and voted for the Democratic Candidate, Mr. Everhart, on account of his temperance proclivities must feel very much elated with their choice, or forced to the conclusion that they were most beautifully sold.

Will the Radical please inform us as to which horn of the dilema they propose to tie to?

——Bellefonte had a Semi-centennial of her own on Saturday—the fiftieth birthday of one of her most unassuming and most worthy citizens. A large number of friends called upon him at twelve o'clock to offer hearty congratulations. An hour or two of social converse followed; then came dinner—nothing that has been written on the subject of groaning tables, endless courses, rare viands, or "adequate ideas," would do justice to that dinner; nobody could have done it justice so well as the gentlemen who surrounded that table. The afternoon was gone when they arose from the semi-centennial dinner; and, when the company separated, it was with many congratulations to Mr. John H. Sands and his estimable lady, and with hearty wishes that Providence would spare them many returns of their natal day.

——At the meeting of the Millheim Building & Loan Association, last Monday evening, one share of Permanent Loan was sold—it brought 24 per cent. Premium. One hundred and twenty dollars at three months, brought at the rate of 22 per cent. per annum, twenty-five dollars at the rate of 39 per cent. per annum. The first series will probably close at the next meeting, and those wishing to subscribe should call on one of the officers or Directors before April 12th.—Berichter.

OLOGRAPHS.—A handsome Olograph in oiled walnut and gilt frame given to each purchaser of tea at S. A. Brew, & Son's, two doors West of Post Office, in Humes' block. This firm deals extensively in all kinds of groceries and have won their extensive patronage by, 1 By guaranteeing satisfaction. 2. By offering such goods and prices, that it pays to buy from them. 3. By keeping what everybody wants. 4. By giving money's worth for money received.

——It is rumored that Ed. Perks, Esq., of Philipsburgh, will become landlord of the Brockerhoff house, after April 1st, with Abram Jackson as assistant. That team will keep a good house and, if Mr. Johnson decides to quit, we hope the rumor may be verified.

TRAIN THROWN OFF THE TRACK.—On last Friday evening, after the Bald Eagle Express had returned from this place to Milesburg, and, while passing the switch on to the main line, the entire train was thrown from the track by a misplaced switch. The engine and coaches were considerably damaged and it took the workmen all night, till five o'clock Saturday morning, to make sufficient repairs so as to get the train to Lock Haven. Fortunately no one was injured. There is no doubt left but that the switch was changed by some evil disposed party. It was right coming from Tyrone, when the train came onto the Bellefonte branch and it is never changed until the train comes back and gets on to the main road again. The engine was reversed, as is necessarily the case with Lock Haven bound trains, and of course it was impossible for the engineer to see that the switch was wrong. An examination of the switch lock shows that it could not have been opened except with a key. This is the last of a number of efforts made by an unknown party to throw the train off the track at Milesburg. The railroad officials, both on the train and at Milesburg, were entirely in the line of duty and are perfectly blameless. A severe penalty awaits the worse than murderer, who would coolly and maliciously attempt the lives of over thirty innocent men, women, and children.

LECTURE.—Col. W. W. Brown will repeat his lecture, "The claims of Society upon Young Men" in the Court House this evening. This lecture was so favorably received when last delivered, on Washington's Birthday, that a large number of our citizens having requested the Colonel to repeat the lecture, this evening has been fixed upon for its delivery. In addition to the lecture, which is short, Mr. Brown will give some elocutionary readings which will be an interesting feature of the evening's entertainment. The proceeds of the former lecture were distributed among the needy people of the town; but the large number of gentlemen requesting the lecture this evening, have signified their desire that it shall be in the nature of a benefit to Col. Brown. We, therefore, urge our people to turn out, one and all. Give him a good audience. The price of admission has been fixed at twenty-five cents which is within the reach of all. Tickets are for sale at F. P. Blair's Jewelry store.

DEATH OF MRS. BLACK.—On Saturday last, Mrs. Black, wife of Mr. B. V. Black of this place, departed this life after a brief illness. We sincerely condole with Mr. Black in his bereavement. A few months since he buried three little children, all of whom died within three weeks of each other. Now, by the death of his wife, he is left with a little boy—all that remains of his once loving, happy family.

——Justices of the Peace elect, should bear in mind, that unless they notify the Prothonotary, within thirty days after the election, of their intention to act, their names will not be forwarded to the Secretary of State, and no commissions will be issued.

——We should like to inquire of the local editor of the "Republican" what kind of an animal [a "plea" is. He speaks of "making moccasins for a plea," and we haven't been able to arrive at any understanding of what sort of a critter that is.—Watchman.

It should have been "flea," Joe, but some of our typos were minding their p's and q's to no purpose, last week.

For all Female Complaints.

In young or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the change of life, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription manifests such a positively remedical influence as to call forth the loudest praise from all who use it.

Mr. JOHN A. KIMZER, druggist, of Knob Noster, Mo., writes as follows:

"Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., Dear Sir.—Your medicines sell better than any other I keep, and give universal satisfaction. The people are especially delighted with your Favorite Prescription, and it seems to be a favorite among all that have ever used it." It is sold by druggists and dealers in medicines.

——The following love letter is published as the production of a North Carolina boy, nine years old:

WILMINGTON, July 5.

MY DARLING LUCY: I must leave you to-morrow, you used to love me but your love for me is gone but my love for you is just the same just think Lucy how your words cut my heart i would give you things too as well as Robert but if you want to sell you love for two or three apples go a head i dont care a straw lucy i love the ground you walk on i would die for you i love you lucy please receive my vow. P. S. if you heard of me being dead you drove me to it R. says he don't care a fig for you nore the rest.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

A VALUABLE NEW BOOK.

The glory of the present age is the diffusion of useful information. The appearance of any new publication that bids fair to enlighten the masses more fully, upon any practical subject, should be regarded as reasonable ground for congratulation. It gives us pleasure, therefore to call the attention of our readers to Dr. R. V. Pierce's forthcoming book entitled The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser. The work will contain about nine hundred pages, will be well bound, illustrated with about two hundred wood cuts and colored plates, and sent by mail to any address for the unprecedentedly low price of $1.50. It will be ready for delivery early in April. The Author has become widely and favorably known to the American as well as the people of several foreign nations, through his Family Medicines, and as the founder of the Word's Dispensary at Buffalo, New York, established for the treatment of Chronic Diseases, and now ventures to appear in the new role of authorship. From a perusal of advance pages, we believe the book is calculated to be eminently useful. It embraces a wide range of subjects, all of them bearing with more or less directness upon the all-important question of health. Biology, Physiology, the Celebral Functions, the Human Temperament, and Hygiene Treatment, or Nursing of the sick, receive that attention which their relative importance demands. Physical and Mental Culture, Ventilation, Sleep, Cleanliness, Food, Beverages and Clothing in a practical manner. The use of Water as a Remedial Agent receives that attention which it deserves. Under the head of Remedies for Diseases is presented a list of our most useful indigenous medicinal plants together with their properties and uses and pictorial representations of many of the most important. The appropriate dose of each remedy is given. After a suitable introduction we have in Part Fourth, Diseases and their Remedial Treatment. Almost every disorder that preys upon the human system is here discribed, together with its symptoms, causes and treatment, as far as it is thought safe and advisable for the nonprofessional to prescribe. Chronic ailments receive special attention. A chapter on Accidents and Emergencies is a very useful feature of the book. Beside this, much miscellaneous and profitable information is given, which will make it genuine "vade mecum"—a convenient companion in every household. Many a precious life has been lost from the lack of just the knowledge which this work imparts. A healthy moral sentiment prevades the whole work, and we cordially commend it as worthy of a place in every family.

Bellefonte Markets.

BELLEFONTE, March 17, 1875.

The markets in our town are in about the same inactivity, that they have been for several weeks.

WHEAT—The wheat market still continues on the same unsatisfactory stage. It is reported that from fifty to sixty thousand bushels are in store, at the mills and ware-house of our town. So long as the great railroad war continues between the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads, there will be little outlet for grain now in store here. It is said, that wheat is being conveyed from Chicago to Baltimore at fourteen cents per bushel freight, which is a lower freight than one of the belligerent companies will carry from here to the same city.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Charles Lamb, Essayist, denounces all spirituous liquors as "Wet Damnation." Poor fellow; he knows whereof he spake, by sad experience, and if living, would apply the same to Alocholic Excitants, advertised as Cureatis. But there is one Tonic and Alterative in existance—the best the world has ever known—which contains no alcohol. It is DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS. 8-4w

MANY people, particularly children, suffer with the ear ache; and for the benefit of such we give a sure but simple remedy. Put in two or three drops of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, stop the ear with undressed wool, bathe the feet in warm water before going to bed, and keep the head warm at night.

Capt. Charles Sager, who keeps a superb stock of livery horses in Portland, Me., informed us recently that he uses Sheridan's Cavalry Powders regularly in his stables, and that the expense is more than offset by the diminished amount of grain necessary to keep his horses always in good order.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and direction for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 59 6m 42 Cedar St., New York.

E. F. KUNKEL'S BITTER WINE OF IRON.

This truly valuable tonic has been so thoroughly tested by all classes of the community that it is now deemed indispensable as a Tonic medicine. It costs but little, purifies the blood, and gives tone to the stomach, renovates the system and prolongs life. Everybody should have it.

For the cure of Weak Stomachs, General Debility, Indigestion, Diseases of the Stomach, and for all cases requiring a tonic.

The wine includes the most agreeable and efficient Salt of Iron we possess—Citrate of Magnetic Oxide, combined with the most energetic of vegetable tonics—Yellow Peruvian Bark.

Do you want something to strengthen you?
Do you want a good appetite?
Do you want to get rid of nervousness?
Do you want energy?
Do you want to sleep well?
Do you want to build up your constitution?
Do you want to feel well?
Do you want a brisk and vigorous feeling?
If you do try KUNKLE'S BITTER WINE OF IRON.

I only ask a trial of this valuable tonic!

Beware of counterfeits, as Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron is the only sure and effectual remedy in the known world for the permanent cure of Dyspepsia and Dibility, and as there are a number of imitations offered to the public I would caution the community to purchase none but the genuine article, manufactured by E. F. Kunkle, and having his stamp on the cork of every bottle. The very fact that others are trying to imitate this valuable remedy, proves its worth and speaks volumes in its favor. Get the genuine.

Sold only in $1 bottles. Sold by Druggists and dealers everywhere.

DR. SCHENCK'S STANDARD REMEDIES.

The standard remedies for all disease of the lungs are SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, and, if taken before the lungs are destroyed, a speedy cure is effected.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philapelphia, owes his unrivalled success in the treatment of pulmonary diseases.

The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs; nature throws it off by an easy expectoration; for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cold will throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the Pulmonic Syrup to do this, Schenck's Mandrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills act on the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle stimulent and alterative; the alkali of which it is composed, mixes with the food and prevents sourling. It assists the digestion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to prevent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his principal office, corner of SIXTH and ARCH STS., Philadelphia, every Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggests throughout the country. 10-8t

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

WHAT IS VEGETINE?

It is a compound extracted from bark, roots and herbs. It is Nature's Remedy. It is perfectly harmless from any bad effect upon the system. It is nourishing and strengthening. It acts directly upon the blood. It quiets the nervous system. It gives you good sweet sleep. It is a panacea for our aged fathers and mothers, for it gives them strength, quiets their nerves, and gives them Nature's sweet sleep—as has been proved by many an aged person. It is the great Blood Purifier. It is a soothing remedy for our children. It has relieved and cured thousands. It is very pleasant to take; every child likes it. It relieves and cures all diseases originating from impure blood. Try the VEGETINE. Give it a fair trial for your complaints; then you will say to your friend, neighbor and acquaintance, "Try it; it has cured me."

RELIABLE EVIDENCE.

The following unsolicited testimonial from Rev. O. T. Walker, formerly pastor of Bowdoin Square Church, Boston, and at present settled in Providence, R. I., must be deemed as reliable evidence. No one should fail to observe that this testimonial is the result of two years' experience with the use of VEGETINE in the family of Rev. Mr. Walker's family, who now pronounce it invaluable:

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 164 TRANSIT STREET.
H. R. STEVENS, ESQ.:

I feel bound to express with my signature the high value I place upon your VEGETINE. My family have used it for the last two years. In nervous debility it is invaluable, and I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, renovating tonic. O. T. WALKER,
Formerly Pastor of Bowdoin Square Church, Boston.

THE BEST EVIDENCE.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, the Pastor of the M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians; also those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, as there is no doubt about the curative power of VEGETINE.

NATICK, MASS., Jan. 1st, 1872.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—We have good reason for regarding your VEGETINE a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg, caused by scrofulous affection, and so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give but the slightest hope of his ever rallying; two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him VEGETINE and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but lately uses but little, as he is too well to be taking medicine.

Respectfully yours,
MRS. L. C. F. BEST.
E. S. BEST.

READ EVERY WORD.

TO MAKE ENOUGH MONEY

in the next three months to keep you a year, any unemployed person between the ages of 16 and 60 should take an agency for THE ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY, a large, sparkling, literary and family paper, (2,50 a year) pure, instructive, and amusing; half of its pages full of beautiful pictures, the other half containing the choicest reading matter. JAMES PARTON contributing editor. Like that great English paper, the The London News, it is highly moral, but entirely uncertain and non-political. During a year it furnishes over 1,100 pictures, and the equal of 9 large octavo volumes reading matter. IT GIVES AWAY, extra each week, a large engraving, (52 in a year), size, 17x24 inches. These are exquisite facsimiles of the finest steel engravings, on heavy tinted paper, with margins suitable for framing, and are truly a fine art galary every year. Besides, each subscriber is presented with the chromo "Gold Fish, Fruit and Flowers," size 2x2½ feet, in 27 oil colors, painted by Ramsey. Not only the largest and finest premium ever given, but the most wonderfully beautiful chromo ever produced. It is just the paper for which everybody has been waiting—larger and finer than any other, at half the usual cost. Its success (nearly 1000 subscribers a day being received) proves this. So complete, so progressive, so full of useful as well as entertaining matter is this paper, that we venture to assert that to every thinking, observant American, a years' subscription (costs $2.50) is, in actual, useful value, worth fifty dollars. AGENTS.—This combination is unequalled. It is instantaneous and pronounced success. Every good American takes at least one paper, of course. He takes this paper (1) it is the nicest, newest and best; (2) it is the cheapest—giving a great bargain—and thus suits the hard times. It sells itself. Be quick, if you want an agency. This time of the year any agent can make from $10 to $20 per day. Send three stamps for specimens, and liberal terms, with reports from agents, subscribers, and press notices; or, better yet, to save time, send $2,50 for a complete outfit, and make $100 while you would otherwise be waiting. You are sure to take hold anyhow. Money refunded if not perfectly satisfied, or if the territory you want is already occupied. Address all orders for specimens, subscriptions, or outfits to T. E. MOORE, Publisher "The Illustrated Weekly," P. O. Box 5459, No. 11 Dey Street, New York. 11-4w

THE ILLUSTRATED

HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE,

WITH WHICH IS INCORPORATED

WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE.

It is the intention of the conductors of this Magazine to still further make it a model of literary and mechanical excellence, and, with this view, no advantage will be neglected which either talent or capital can command to render each issue an agreeable and instructive compendium of

POPULAR READING.

Its pages will be devoted to popular literature, science, art, education and social development. Its characteristic feature is comprehensiveness. The manuscripts now on hand, and others especially engaged, embrace an usually attractive list of

DESCRIPTIVE SKETCHES OF TRAVEL,
SERIAL STORIES, TALES, POEMS,
PAPERS ON SCIENCE AND ART,
POPULAR ESSAYS, NARRATIVES,
LITERARY CRITICISMS, FASHIONS, etc.,

together with a variety of able and interesting articles upon the important Questions of the Day. A large portion of the articles, especially those descriptive of travel, will be

PROFUSELY ILLUSTRATED.

The pictorial embellishments of the Magazine hereafter constituting one of its most attractive features.

The purpose of the Publishers is to furnish a periodical which shall be instructive in THE HOUSEHOLD, THE LIBRARY and THE READING ROOM, giving an abundance of entertaining and popular literature and information for both old and young, carrying light comfort and good nature into every family, and making it acceptible for the whole Household—father and mother, boys and girls, young men and young women.

THE ILLUSTRATED HOUSHOLD MAGAZINE

includes several DISTINCT DEPARTMEMTS, each under competent and efficient management, viz:

1. SKETCHES—consisting of Descriptions of Travel and Adventure, Serial Stories, Tales and Narratives, lavishly and appropriately illustrated.
2. MISCELLANY—made up of brilliant extracts from new books, highly entertaining sketches of notable persons and things from the best Foreign Publications, Poems and Papers on Science and Art.
3. EDITORIAL DEPARTMENT—in which is given brilliant essays upon a wide range of subjects; social topics discussed and current incidents and doings glanced at.
4. FASHION DEPARTMENT—containing a resume of the Paris, London and New York Fashions, illustrated with ingraving of the latest styles.
5. LETERARY NOTES—devoted to reviews and criticisms of new books and general information.
6. CHILDREN'S DEPARTMENT—furnishes instruction and entertainment to the Boys and Girls, and those older people who have young hearts. It is embellished with high class illustrations of Natural History, Wonderful Scenery and rare incidents.
7. HOUSEKEEPER'S DEPARTMENT—comprising information and receipts, many of which are original and published for the first time all collected from the most authentic sources.

It will be the constant aim of the HOUSEHOLD PUPLISHING COMPANY to make THE ILLUSTRATED HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE in the future, as WOOD'S HOUSEHOLD MAGAZINE has been in the past,

THE BEST DOLLAR MONTHLY PUBLISHED,

sparing neither effort, trouble nor expense in securing the BEST WRITERS as contributors, and the BEST ARTISTS to produce illustrations to enrich its pages.

AGENTS WANTED.—We require a good, FAITHFUL AGENT in every town throughout the United States and Canada, who will earnestly engage in the business of procuring subscribers—not for a few days or a month only, but permanently—with a firm determination to canvass thoroughly and carefully the entire field selected, improving every opportunity to realize all that can be made from the introduction of the Magazine.

OUR PREMIUM AND CLUBBING LISTS offer great inducements for working in our behalf. Schools and Churches have here an unusual opportunity to procure Musical Instruments from the best manufacturers, with comparatively slight exertions. Artisans, Professional Men and Students may gratify their literary tastes by ordering from the Clubbing Lists. Children may earn and own many long and desired articles by obtaining the few subscribers required.

TERMS—YEARLY SUBSCRIPTION, $1.00.

Specimen Copies mailed, post-paid, to any address upon receipt of ten cents.

The postage, within the United States is Ten Cents a year, which must be forwarded with the subscription, as the new Postal Law requiring the prepayment of postage on all magazines by publishers themselves, instead of subscribers, compels us to collect the postage in advance.

Send for Circulars containing rates of commission and inducements to canvassers, and the Premium and Clubbing Lists.

Plaster, Its Value And How it Acts.

Ben. Franklin, the printer and philosopher, is said to have been the first person to try plaster on clover, on this continent; he sowed it in a clover-field, near one of the highroads in Pennsylvania, so as to form the letters of the sentence, "This is manured with gypsum;" and so marked was the effect in color and height of the clover thus treated, that the sentence was easily read, and proved a very telling advertisement for the new fertilizer. Some of the accounts of early experimenting in Pennsylvania are quite marvelous, and prove a very special adaption of soil and climate to plaster.

The beneficial action of plaster on certain soils is owing to its containing, in addition to lime, the important element of sulphur, which enters into the composition of nearly all parts of animals and vegetables, and is found in a variety of combinations, which render it available for plant food. There are sundry simple tests which may be easily applied even by the unscientific farmer. "When he finds that those fields which once produced luxuriant crops of red clover or sainfoin will no longer yield them in abundance; if he notices that the young plants spring up very numerously, but die away as the season advances; if he finds that his fields will only grow clover successfully once in eight or twelve years and that his neighbors tell him that his land is tired of clover, or 'clover sick;' if he notices that even the application of farm-yard compost hardly adds to the luxuriance of his grasses, he may then safely conclude that his crops have exhausted his land of sulphate of lime; and he may, with every confidence of success, apply a dressing of gypsum, at the rate of two cwt. per acre, taking care to secure a damp morning for the application, and this may be done at any season of the year. The soils to which plaster is best adapted are those of a light, dry, sandy, gravelly or chalky character. The effect of this fertilizer, itself calcareous in nature, on soils already impregnated with similar matter, is one of the mysteries of nature, which chemistry, with all its researches, has not succeeded in finding out.

The plants to which this fertilizer is best suited, and those of the broad-leaved, legumin ous classes, such as clover, peas, beans, vetches, lucerne and sainfoin. All these plants contain gypsum or sulphate of lime in sensible proportions. Analysis of clover and sainfoin grasses has shown that an ordinary crop of these usually contains from 1½ to 2 cwt. per acre of sulphate of lime, and this is the proportion of plaster which experience teaches is of the most benefit to the growing crop. The annual repetition of this dressing is followed by renewed benefit.

It is on red clover that plaster achieves its grandest effects, and whether as a rotation with wheat, a means of amendment to an impoverished soil, or as a simple product for profit, it pays to use it on this crop, and it is indeed the poorest economy possible not to do it.

Much of the efficacy of plaster has been found to depend on the state of the weather at the time of its application. Both a wet spell and a drought are unsuitable seasons. It is recommended to sow it in the evening, or early in the morning, or just after a shower, as it is found that much benefit results from its adhering well to the leaves. A gloomy, hazy day is a good one for the job.

From 100 to 200 pounds per acre may be sown, according to the condition and requirements of the land and crop.

Plaster is very justly held in high esteem by the practical agriculturalist, and is being more extensively used than ever before. Applied to young clover fields, corn, tobacco, potatoes, and crops generally, its beneficial effects are plainly visible. It improves the soil permanently, and acts beneficially by condensing the ammonia of the atmosphere and the soil, by holding this subtile and powerful manure in its grasp, by fixing and giving it out to assist the growth of the plant-growth as required, instead of allowing the ammonia to pass away. It is valuable, too, by preventing the escape of ammonia from manure heaps, and by reason of its cheapness and its value, its adaption to all soils, and the rapidity with which it can be applied, there is every inducement for its more general use. The farmer will be amply repaid for its use upon the yearly products of his farm.

It is admitted that the Cayuga is equal to any other, and the largely increased use of this article is proof of its great value for restoring lands that have run down, no longer yielding good crops, and for improving the land generally.

At a late meeting of Rosendale (Wis.) Farmers's Club, and member stated that he sowed plaster on a field, May 20th, and obtained three times the grass on this field more than on that where it was not sowed. He used to raise only one ton per acre; now raised, by plaster, two or three tons per acre. Always top-dressed it on grass lands.

In a discussion it was stated that when plaster was sown on clover, the clover all cut and hauled off, and the ground broken and sowed to oats every cast of the plaster made in sowing it could be plainly seen in the field of oats. Also that when plaster was applied to corn in the hill the place of every hill could be seen in a crop of wheat which followed. In a drought, dew would be found on the ground where plaster had been sown, while all other ground was dry and hard. D. H. Compton, in his celebrated Prize Essay on the Cultivation of the Potato says:

"However much lime or other fertilizers may be applied to the soil, still great benefit is derived from the use of plaster, (sulphate of lime.)

After all, plaster is the main dependence of the potato-grower, a help on which he may rely with the utmost confidence. Astonishing results are obtained from its use, when applied in a proper manner. The writer has seen a field, all of the same soil, all prepared alike, and all planted at the same time, on one half of which, that had no plaster, the yield was but sixty bushels per acre, and many rotton; the other parts, to which plaster was applied in the manner hereafter explained, yielded three hundred and sixty bushels per acre, and not an unsound one among them.

To obtain the best results, the vines of potatoes should be dusted with plaster as soon as they are fairly through the soil, again immediately after the last plowing and hoeing, and, for reasons hereafter given, at intervals throughout the whole growing season. The first application may be light, the second heavier, and thereafter it should be bountifully applied, say two hundred pounds per acre at one sowing."

With a view of benfiting agricultural interests generally and promoting our own interests to a limited extent, we have engaged in the sale of Cayuga Plaster, with the assurance, that we are furnishing an article as good as the best, at a much lower price, than plaster has been sold heretofore in this community. When we first engaged in the sale a year ago, we were not fully satisfied as to the utility of the Cayuga Plaster, so we telegraphed to the Orange Judd Co., the well known publishers of the American Agriculturist, New York, asking them what difference there was between Cayuga Plaster and Nova Scotia or White Plaster as a fertilizer. They replied, "No differance, the price is the only consideration." With this assurance, we now feel that we can offer the Cayuga Plaster to the farming community, on its own merits and confidentially believe, that it will render entire satisfaction, if properly used. We have obtained special rates of freight to all stations on the Bald Eagle Valley and Tyrone and Clearfield Railroads, and will be glad to fill orders for car loads of 24,000 pounds to 28,000 pounds at a reduced price, manifest weight in all cases to be paid for. Terms cash. The retail price at our yard is $9,50 per tun of 2,000 pounds.

We still continue to exchange plaster for grain and potatoes at current prices.

Eggs at Five Cents Apiece.

It seems that in New York eggs will be had at any cost. But here in Bellefonte, the people have been compelled to do without them because merchants have stubbornly refused to pay such a price as would tempt the farmers to bring them in; the fact that eggs have been sixty-five cents a dozen in such a centre as the great city of New York, is evidence enough that the least that should have been offered for them here, was forty cents per dozen. It is time the merchants in Bellefonte knew that there are some customers that want certain kinds of farm produce and are willing to pay enough to induce the farmers to sell it. We predict that the merchant who first grasps this idea and carries it out to the letter, will secure a class of customers that will lead to a sure independence. These remarks are suggested by the following, taken from the New York Witness, showing what a price eggs have reached in that market, which shows that enough is paid to bring them, whatever that may be. Would it not be profitable to Centre county farmers to give some attention to this business and raise eggs for the New York market; it seems to us that it might be made very remunerative.

Eggs at five cents apiece in the greatest farming country in the world! Eggs at five cents apiece in the country most amply supplied with agricultural papers and periodicals, and having pages devoted to farming in each number of the political weeklies!! Eggs at five cents apiece when and where the grain needed for feeding poultry is cheapest!!! Yet this phenomonen has occurred. Families in New York and Brooklyn, in the month of February, have had to pay a quarter for five fresh eggs. Normandy, by reason of its mild climate and sandy soil supplies the London market with eggs in enormous quantities—if we remember rightly, about 150,000,000 a year—and that at moderate rates. We have a region in Virginia, West Virgima and Maryland somewhat similar in point of soil and climate, a large portion of which is uncultivated, and the negroes know as much about the management of fowls as the French. That region could export as many eggs to New York as Normandy does to London besides supplying the nearer cities. Why, may we ask, is this great source of wealth neglected?

Of course it is only in an exceptionally cold Spring and during Lent that such a price as we have named can be realized, but under no circumstances should fresh eggs be so scarce and dear. Fresh eggs can be had all the year round by judicious feeding in a mild climate, or with the aid of artificial heat in Winter, in a severe one. The rules are simple; keep the hens in small flocks; give them good grain, good accommodations for roosting, laying, etc., and a good bit of good ground to run over. Turn up a portion of this ground regularly that they may find worms and insects. Sow what is plowed abundantly with oats, millet, or any other grain or mixture of grains, and let the fowls stratch for the grain, draw up and eat the blades as fast as they sprout. Keep a portion of the land in pasture, as hens eat much grass, and plant plum and cherry trees around it, that they may have shelter under them and find abundance of curulios, which are quite a hen dainty.

Finally, cannot enterprising caterers make egg-houses as well as fruit houses in which to lay up eggs in the early Summer preserved in a scientific manner and keep in a low temperature till Winter? We have no doubt that some method will be found that will keep April and May eggs good for a year.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar-coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution or diet or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box, how to use them as a Family Physic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:—

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor, and Loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Bilious Headache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Bilious Colic and Bilious Fevers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action, or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back, and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion, and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

THE GREAT INDIAN DIURETIC.

INFINITELY SUPERIOR TO BUCHU.

Nine tenths of the human family suffer, directly or indirectly, at one time or other, from diseases or irregularities of the generative system, while the victims of indiscretion, and of quack treatment, are comparatively numerous.

The idea that patients cannot treat themselves successfully in these cases, has long ago been exploded. A good and reliable medicine, prepared by an experienced physician, from the original Indian Recipe, that is guaranteed to effect a can be as safely relied upon as the prescription of the most skillful practitioner. Such a medicine is the celebrated

CHEROKEE REMEDY.

Full directions accompany each bottle, and if they are carefully followed, a quick and permanent cure is guarranteed. Price $2.00 per bottle.

THE CHEROKEE INJECTION, should always be used in conjunction with the Remedy for both incipient and obstinate cases of Gonorrhœa. Price $2.00 per bottle.

CHEROKEE CURE

for seminal weakness (spermatorrhœa), is a simple vegetable medicine that was used for many years in the practice of the physician who first gave the remedy to the public. It has effected cures that would scarcely be credited except on ocular evidence of the fact. Full directions, with pamphlet containing all particulars of symptoms, treatment, &c., accompany each bottle. Price $2.00 per bottle. Sold everywhere.

CHEROKEE PILLS.

These Pill are prepared expressly for the cure of those irregularities to which ladies are subject, and will be found safe, reliable and effectual, for the cure of Suppression, Green Sickness, Pain in the Back, Hysteria, Sick Headache, &c., &c. Price $1.00 per box.

Heimstreet's Hair Restorative,

OR INIMITABLE HAIR COLORING.

NOT A DYE.—Heimstreet's "Hair Coloring is not a Dye, and its operation is not by any chemical effect, but by a natural restoration of the glands, thus giving the hair the color it originally had.

NATURALNESS.—When the hair is dyed, its color is leaden hued and unnatural, but when restored by HEIMSTREET'S HAIR COLORING, its appearance is so perfectly natural that no one can detect the use of any Restorative.

STAINLESS.—While the Restorative acts promptly on the hair, it leaves no stain or mark whatever on the skin. It is composed of ingredients that form a perfect dressing as well as a coloring, so that no oils, &c., are necessary.

THIS MOST EFFECTIVE of all the Hair Restorers is for sale by all druggists at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. Numerous certificates from those who have used it are in the possession of the proprietors.

Rat and Vermin Destroyer

FOR EXTERMINATING RATS, MICE, WATER BUGS, ROUCHES, RED ANTS, &c.

STRENGTH.—When a Rat tastes the Egyptian Destroyer, his death warrant is signed, sure. It cannot fail to kill. It also creates great thirst, and the rat will search for water out of doors, and not die in his hole, to cause a stench that cannot be got out.

ATTRACTIVENESS.—Rats are the shrewdest of vermin. It is hard to get them to eat poison. An ingredient in the Egyption Destroyer is a perfect bait, and they are attracted rather than freightened be it. "Rats (not children) cry for it.

KEEPING SOFT.—People know how the ordinary Rat Pastes dry up and become useless, causing annoyance and loss. The Egyptian Destroyer is fully warranted to keep soft, fresh and effective in any climate for years.

SURE DEATH.—The Egyptian Destroyer kills every time. Hundreds of unsolicited testimonials are now in the hands of the proprietors, substantiating its great merits as the best preparation for destroying Vermin in the world. Be sure and ask for the "Egyptian," and take no other.

Put up in large glass bottles. Price, 25 cts. Sold by Druggists everywhere.

MEDICAL.

Wright's Rejuvenating Elixer.

For the restoration of Nature's forces. It gives new life and vigor to the aged, and causes the blood of youth to course through the veins. It effectually cures Impotency, Palpitation of the Heart, Loss of Muscular Power, Low Spirits, Disorganization of the Generative Organs, and all the train of ills that follow in the path of the transgressor of Nature's laws. Price $2 per bottle.

It will be readily understood that in the brief space afforded by the advertising columns of a public print, it is impossible to give all particulars of the diseases that may be cured by the CHEROKEE MEDICINES. That they are destined to become immensely popular is plainly obvious in consequence of their

GREAT INTRINSIC MERIT.

The pamphlet and circulars that accompany the medicines give all the information which cannot be given here, and the remedies may be had of any respectable druggist.

AT PRIVATE SALE.

A valuable farm containing 215 acres, situate within one mile of Milesburg, and three miles of Bellefonte, at the junction of the Bald Eagle Valley and Snow Shoe railroads, near the depot, Schools, Churches, Post office, Mills, etc. The lands are FREE from STONE, level, well fenced, and under a good state of cultivation. A valuable vein of

LIME STONE ROCK

is on the farm, and a village is growing up around it, which gives a fair prospect of an increase in value before long. The Philipsburg turnpike runs through it for a distance of ¼ of a mile rendering a large strip on each side available for house lots, from which the entire price of the farm might be realized, lots having sold heretofore for $100 apiece. The farm is well watered, having water in all the fields, good wells at the house and barn with pumps all in good order. There also are 50 acres of good

PINE AND OAK TIMBER.

The land has a southern exposure and is therefore very early. There are two houses on the farm, both facing the turnpike. One containing five rooms on the first floor with Hall and five on the second and back Kitchen, with room over-head. Connected with this house is a good log barn, ice house and other out buildings. On the other side of the road is the other house containing eight rooms with good barn and out buildings. This farm could be divided into two parts, and will be if purchasers so desire, making one containing 130 acres with the large house, and the other containing 36 acres with the small house. Terms easy. Inquire of James L. Sommerville, or R. T. Downing, or at the office of the Bellefonte REPUBLICAN. 38 tf.

Weak, Nervous or Debilitated?

Are you so Languid that any exertion requires more of an effort than you feel capable of making?

Then try JURUBEBA, the wonderful tonic and invigorator, which acts so beneficially on the secretive organs as to impart vigor to all the vital forces.

It is no alcoholic appetizer, which stimulates for a short time, only to let the sufferer fall to a lower depth of misery, but it is a vegetable tonic acting directly on the liver and spleen.

It regulates the Bowels, quiets the nerves, and gives such a healthy tone to the whole system as to soon make the invalid feel like a new person.

Its operation is not violent, but is characterized by great gentleness; the patient experiences no sudden change, no marked results, but gradually his troubles

"Fold their tents, like the Arabs,
And silently steal away."

This is no new and untried discovery, but has been long used with wonderful remedial results, and is pronounced by the highest medical authorities, "the most powerful tonic and alternative known."

ELAINE

AS AN ILLUMINATOR.

WHY IT IS THE SAFEST.

ELAINE will not explode while burning in a lamp, nor in any other way, as it does not contain any of the explosive compounds so frequently met with in the ordinary oil for illuminating. A lamp, filled with ELAINE, if upset or accidently broken, will not explode or burn. There is no position in which you can put a lamp filled with ELAINE, for common use, in which it will explode. As no other illuminator has such advantages of safety, ELAINE IS CERTAINLY THE SAFEST FAMILY ILLUMINATING OIL KNOWN.

HIS HONOR, JUDGE ORVIS IN BEDFORD COUNTY.—From the Bedford papers we glean the following in regard to attentions shown Judge Orvis by the bar of Bedford County at the close of a two weeks term of court at which he presided:

A BANQUET FOR JUDGE ORVIS.—Hon. John H. Orvis, President Judge of the Centre County Judicial district, officiated at our last term of court for his Honor, Judge Hall. As we have before stated in these columns the members of the Bedford Bar were "taken off" with him, and were without exception, very liberal in their enconiums. In fact the high respect and love that were manifested at the "first greeting" continued to grow as his stay was prolonged, and finally, on Wednesday evening of last week, culminated in a grand banquet at the Washington Hotel, at which the entire Bar and the Press were in attendance. To describe the scenes, incidents and pleasures of the hour, would not only be an Herculean task, but would require more space in our paper than we have to spare. Suffice it to say that it was a grand success in every sense of the word, and an occasion that will long be remembered by every participant. Hon. S. L. Russell, the "oldest member," did the honors with great credit. Judge Orvis, who is plain spoken and plan and unassuming in every other respect, an amiable, social gentleman, and an officer of acknowledged ability, a credit to his judicial district and an honor to his profession, fully appreciated the demonstrations, and left our town knowing that he had formed ties of friendship that will not easily be broken.

The supper was grand and in all its details was highly enjoyed by every one present; as we have no doubt the proprietor upon the principle of consumption, can testify.

COMPLIMENTARY RESOLUTION.—His Honor, Judge Orvis, of the 25th Judicial District, presided at the sessions of the several courts of this county, which commenced on the 22d ult., and continued for two weeks. Judge Orvis, through his kindness and courtesy to the Bar, and, in fact to all with whom he came in contact, has won the golden opinion of all and has endeared himself to our people. His great legal attainments are unquestioned, his quick and accurate conception of the matters in controversy, and his prompt but courteous manner in giving his opinions were fully recognized and appreciated by our attorneys and others who had business before him. A man with the ability of Judge Orvis should not be permitted to remain in the courts below. His place is on the Sepreme Bench, and it is but due to him that his friends see to it that he be placed there.

The several courts adjourned on Friday afternoon of last week. Immediately after the adjournment, the President of the Bar Association, Hon. S. L. Russell, took the chair. Whereupon J. M. Reynolds, Esq., offered the following resolution: Resolved by the Bar Association of Bedford, that the thanks of its members be, and they are hereby tendered to the Hon. J. H. Orvis for his uniform courtesy to them, and for the impartial and expeditious manner in which he has dispatched the business of the past two weeks while he presided over our courts, and that in him we recognize a gentleman of high culture, and a jurist of profound attainments.

Unanimously adopted, and on motion ordered to be published in the county papers.

——Since our article last week about J. A. Woodward's wonderful Essex pig, we have received five communications from different parties who all claim to have done better in the line of pork raising than the energetic president of the agricultural society. But they are all louder than the demands of veracity would seem to require. One man says that he killed a pig six months old, that had been blind for over a year, and it weighed, when dressed, 542 pounds. If the individual who wrote up the above pig story wanted to lie, why didn't he go the extreme animal? We know of a case that beats that all to pieces. A friend of ours had a Chester White that lately became the parent of a two-year-old pig, that had no snout, ears, or legs. Otherwise it gave signs of promise, and the owner resolved to call science to his aid and supply the defects of nature. After a consultation with that scientific blacksmith, Mr. Benj. Schrock, a steel snout was made and fitted on as a frontispiece to the pig's head. The fact that it was made of steel, probably accounts for its wonderful weight at the day of final dissolution. Two bottles of Tyson's liniment were applied back of the eyes, and in three weeks as fine a pair of ears had grown as ever were turned into souse. The owner then took a two inch auger and bored holes where the legs ought to have been, then drove in four oak posts as pedal extremities. He then applied seven bottles of Green's "Coma Restitutor," which haired them over in a short time. During the animal's lifetime, it found no difficulty in breaking into corn cribs and granaries, by prying off door locks and breaking hinges. It could break through a post-and-rail fence with ease, and raise an acre of potatoes in half a day. It could outrun any dog in the county. The last few months before killing, it devoured 400 bushels of corn daily, and when it was killed, they had to rent the large town reservoir to scald it in. It was weigbed in sections, and when the clerks, who have been busy at it for three weeks, have reckoned up the sum total, we will give the exact weight.

——District Collectors have been notified to commence the sale of stamps under the new act immediately. Cigar stamps have been increased from $5 to $6 per hundred, and the tax on spirituous liquors from seventy to ninety cents per gallon.

——The International Sunday School Convention of Sunday school workers of America, including the United States and the Dominion of Canada will meet at Baltimore, Maryland, at 10 oclock A. M., Tuesday, May 11, 1875, and continue in session until Thursday evening, May 13, inclusive.

Eatertainment for duly accredited delegates is tendered by the citizens of Baltimore, in case application is made accordingly, prior to May 1st, to Rev. H. A. Smeltz, No 8, North Charles street, Baltimore, Md.

——A young man, named William Huston, who lived with his mother at Bell's Mills, above Tyrone, under cover of darkness, last week, entered the house and stole from his aged mother one hundred and forty dollars, about all she possessed in the world, and left, leaving a note stating that he needed the money and that he would not be back for two years. What must be the end of a son who could treat so basely the mother who gave him birth? Thank God, we have yet to hear of so despicable a villian living within the borders of Centre county.

——Just opposite our office, on Water street, in front of the room formerly occupied by Mr. F. C. Richards, swings the sign of E. A. Smith, manufacturer of Tin and Sheet Iron. This is a new establishment just opened by Mr. Smith, who is a first class workman and knows all about his trade, having worked at it for many years. He is also prepared to do all kinds of plumbing and gas fitting, and people needing work of this kind, will find it to their advantage to give him a call. Mr. Smith is an active, hard-working man, and deserves liberal patronage.

——St. Patrick is said to have been, in boyhood, a polite lad, as the following story relates: He observed a sudden gust of wind carrying a sun-shade (parasol) from the hand of its owner. He immediately dropped his load and caught the parachute. "Faith, ma'am," said he, "if you were as strong as you are handsome, it would not have gotten away from you." "Which shall I thank you for first; the service or the compliment?" asked the lady smilingly. "Sure, ma'am," said the young prophet, touching again the brim of his hat, "that look of your beautiful eyes thanked me for both."

——The passage of the late postal law has doubled the postage on trancient matter, making it one cent an ounce, instead of one cent for two ounces, as heretofore. It is to the interest of the public that they observe this change in the law, as otherwise the mail matter placed in the office, for delivery, if not properly paid, is thrown into the waste basket, there being no way by which the senders thereof can be identified. The law is as follows: That section 8 of the act approved June 23, 1874, making appropriations for the service of the postoffice department for the year ending June 30, 1875, and for other purposes, be and the same is hereby amended as follows: "Insert the word 'ounce' in lieu of the words 'two ounces.'"

——On Thursday the wife of Frank Gowlard entered complaint against him, before Justice Riddles, for desertion. There are facts connected with it that render it peculiar. The wedding occurred about the holidays, both bride and groom being still in their teens, and they began housekeeping only about a month ago. On Tuesday the young husband left home and from Tyrone wrote to his father on the following day directing him to go to his house take his furniture and return it to the merchants from whom he had purchased it, as he and his wife could not agree and he had left her. These instructions his father carried out to the very letter, on the same afternoon, removing even the stove in which two loaves of bread were baking, and leaving the wife without a single article of furniture in the house. The adolescent husband returned to town and his father's house the same evening and was cited before the Justice on the following day and gave bail for his appearance at court.—Journal.

——While Hon. W K Alexander deserves the thanks of the temperance people of Centre County for his vote against the repeal of the local option law, yet he is receiving unmeasured abuse from those fayoring its repeal. The main trouble that Mr. Alexander encounters is to explain how he kept both his promises. He now asserts that the only pledge he gave was to stand by the temperance people; but there are a host of living witnesses to whom Alexander gave his word that he would use all means in his power to help on the repeal of the Local Option law. This playing double is what has brought down upon him the contempt and condemnation of both parties. Alexander however, denies that he made any promises to vote for the repeal. To prove his disregard for truth, we refer to Mr. E D Noll of Spring township, one of the delegates to the convention that nominated Alexander. To him Alexandergave his solemn promise that if nominated and elected he would vote for the repeal. We suppose Mr. Alexander concluded that a bad promise broken, was better than the keeping of it, and he obeyed his convictions of duty in placing his vote on record as it stands. Some of his friends, fearing that he would have the manliness to vote for the repeal "got around" him and induced him off to Philadelphia, hoping to detain him there until after the final vote. But the trap was a failure, and Mr. Alexander, remembering his plurality of pledges to the temperance people manfully turned his back upon his would-be captors and hastened to Harrisburg, in time to vote "no" on the repeal. However much he may be abused by others, he merits and will receive the lasting gratitude of the advocates of temperance and particularly of the organization known as the "Open Temperance Union."

PERSONALS.—Governor Curtin and family were registered at the Continental, Philadelphia, last Saturday.

—His honor, Judge Mayer is holding court in Bellefonte this week, and Judge Orvis, in Clearfield.

—That genial gentleman Dr. J. Y. Dale, who dispenses health to a wide community in the neighborhood of the State College, was in Bellefonte, Saturday afternoon. He was as busy as he could be and we only saw him long enough to get a friendly shake of his hand.

—Mr. George S. Snyder, of Williamsport, who is a Free mason with the following mysterious title, "D. D. G. H. P.," visited Bellefonte last Thursday on business connected with the order. Years ago, when we were a bare-footed urchin, we knew Mr. Snyder well. For a whole summer, he was our Sunday School teacher, and we then formed the impression that he was one of best men above ground; and the renewal of his acquaintance last week, after the lapse of many years, does not tend in the least particular to change our mind.

—Mr. Jacob Kristetter, one of the most reliable Democrats in that always reliable township of Penn, called in when in town on Friday last.

—Mr. Snyder, one of Columbia's best and staunchest Democrats, called to see us on Wednesday morning last. Mr. S. reports the Democracy of Columbia to be prosperous.

—The many friends of Mr. Hammond Sechler will be pleased to learn that he has fully recovered from his late sickness and is again able to superintend the affairs of his magnificent store in the Bush House block. His stock and its arrangement is really the wonder of strangers.

——The affair at Houtzdale in which one man was chased and shot at by another, briefly mentioned in our last, turns out to have been a more serious affair than we were at the time aware of. Pat. Collins married the widow Donahue, until recently a resident of Point Lookout, a suburb of this place, and has lived with her and the children of her first husband at Houtzdale, where he was employed at one of the mines. Mrs. Donahue's nephew a man by the name of Saulsbury seems to have boarded with them. On the occasion referred to, Collins had been abusing one of stepchildren, and Saulsbury interfering, he struck him with an iron mining drill the blow taking effect upon Saulsbury's head. The latter produced a pistol and fired at Collins who ran out of the house and down the railroad to Sterling Colliers, Saulsbury in persuit, and still discharging his pistol. It did not appear at the time that Saulsbury was badly hurt by the blow from the drill, but he grew worse and when physicians were called they discovered that his skull was fractured, and, after removing thirteen pieces of bone, they could give no hopes of his recovery. Collins was arrested and conveyed to Clearfield jail to await the results. No hopes are entertained of the recovery of Saulsbury, at this writing, although he is still alive.—Journal.

——Messrs. John Montgomery & Co are just in receipt of their cassimeres and other suitings for the Spring trade. Their facilities are now unequaled for buying and manufacturing clothing for men and boys, while prices are down to suit the times. ——H. T. Harvey, Esq., of Lock Haven, was in attendance at Court on Monday. Mr. Harvey's abilities, as a lawyer, are becoming known beyond the limits of Clinton County, and we suppose that is the reason he occasionally finds business in the Courts of Centre.

——Court adjourned yesterday, (Thursday), afternoon. A full week's cost to the county for three and a half day's work.—Watchman.

Not true. Every body connected with the court, who is paid out of the County Treasury, received pay only for three and a half days work. If the court transacts the business of a week in three and one half days, it is a saving to the county of two and one half days of court expenses. Besides, it saves parties and witnesses almost one half the expense they would otherwise incur. The writer of the above paragraph, therefore, has misstated the facts.

——We call the attention of the town council to the fact that the fire plugs at the present time are entirely useless, on account of the connecting pipes being frozen. An examination on Saturday of a half dozen, or more, plugs in different parts of town, by a gentleman who reported to us the facts, is our authority for making the statement. Should fire break out in any portion of town, no water could be had except from the hydrants; and if the authorities wait till warmer weather puts the pipes in a serviceable condition, they will leave the town in jeopardy for the next two months.

COURT PROCEEDINGS.

A special term of Court convened in this place on Monday, the 8th inst., and adjourned, for the first week, on Thursday afternoon. His Honor, Judge Orvis, presided. But few of the cases on the list of the first week were found ready for trial, and of those which were tried none were of great importance.

MONDAY 8th.

The case of Herlacher and Durst vs. J. & J. Harris was an action of replevin for a wagon. The evidence was somewhat mixed and conflicting, but not specially interesting.

TUESDAY 9th.

The above case was concluded, and the jury rendered a verdict for defendants. Yocum and Gray for plffs.; Furst and Bower for defts.

Danl. Paul, vs. Wagner & Bro. debt on book account. Plaintiff claimed a balance on account, principally for work of himself and team. Defts. alledged that the balance on the mutual accounts was in their favor; also, that in a suit by them against the plff., in this court, they had allowed him credit for his present claim, excepting a small amount; that the matter having been once adjudicated, there could be no recovery in this action. Mr. Paul swore that he was sick at the time of the former trial, and that his attorney did not attend to it, suffering judgment by default.

WEDNESDAY 10th.

The jury in the case of Paul vs. Wagner & Bro. rendered a verdict for the plff. for the sum of $149.51. This case, in our mind, illustrated a fact we have frequently observed; that an employer, a man of means, has no chance in a contest before a jury, on a claim of a working man. Fortney for plff.; Beaver for defts.; Jas. H. Holmes vs.; Archibald Moore, ejectment. This action was brought to recover the purchase money now due on a sale of a farm by the plff. to the deft. The defence was that the plff. is not able to make a title clear of encumbrance, as he had agreed to do, a right to mine for iron ore having been reserved by a former owner of the land, which was still an encumbrance upon the land; and that there was also an unpaid mortgage on the farm. The case was finally settled by the parties without going to the jury. Furst for plff.; Hoy, and Wilson for deft.; J. M. Blair, Executor, vs. Jas. H. Holmes. Debt on two bonds given for purchase money of a farm. This was the same property as was in ligitation in the above case, in which Mr. Holmes was plff., and the points at issue were substantially the same. The defence in this case as in the other, was that the encumbrance was unknown to the purchaser at the time the contract to buy the farm was entered into, and that this mining right materially lessened the value of the property.

THURSDAY 11th.

The above case was continued. The evidence was concluded, and Gen. Beaver had made the argument for the defence before the Court adjourned for noon. Soon after the court convened in the afternoon, it was announced that the parties had agreed upon a basis of settlement. This case contained some interesting and novel points, and developed some principles that are not often called out, at least, neither counsel nor court seemed to be entirely clear and confident on the subject. Defendant's counsel thought they had a right to retain purchase money sufficient to compensate them for the damage inflicted by the encumbrance, existence of which was concealed from them at the time the contract was entered into, the vender covenanting to make them a complete title in fee simple, and pretending to do so by an indenture in the usual form. On the other hand, plaintiff's counsel claimed that as there was a deed on record, a part of the chain of title, which recited this reservation of a mining right, that was notice to the vendee, and to the whole world. Whether the court was disposed to hold that the principle of caveat emptor applied in this case or not, we did not learn.

With the conclusion of this case all jurors were discharged and the court adjourned until next Monday morning.

CAUTION.—We have for the last three years been sending out Sample Bottles of BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP for Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. We now find other parties advertising Sample Bottles in the same way. All we have seen of these little Sample Bottles contain Ether or Chloroform, intended only to dry up a cough for a day or two. Be careful to call for BOSCHEE'S GERMAN SYRUP which contains no Ether, Chloroform or Opium, but the secret of its success is in a German Extract of ciples of Gum Arabic, and Physicians buy our medicines and use it in their practice successfully. Sold by F. P. GREEN. 6-43-1y-cow.

MARCH 20—Orphan's Court Sale. Estate of Jacob Etters, deceased, Benner twp. Five acres ground with buildings, fruit trees, &c.

MARCH 17—By John G. Love in Halfmoon twp, The Naragon Farm containing 117 acres, 70 cleared. There is a nice young orchard, log house, bank barn and other buildings on the place. Sale to commence at 2 o'clock.

SPRINGLESS TRUSSES AND SUPPORTERS.—Dr. G W Hotchkiss has consented finally by the most earnest solicitation of citizens of this locality to visit as follows: Lock Haven, Irvin House, March 24 & 25, Bellefonte, Brockerhoff House, 26, 27 & 28; Frenchville, Mulson House, 29 & 30. Dr. Hotchkiss has visited this State professionally before and is well and favorably known. His trusses and supporters have given the best satisfaction. The truss has no springs or hard metalic substance; it can be worn night and day and by so doing the rupture heals. There are persons in Bradford County, this state, who have been healed under Dr. Hotchkiss' treatment. Therefore all persons afflicted with hermia should avail themselves of the opportunity because he is truly a good Samaritan in his profession. Dr. H's Post Office address is No. 145.
